

Patrons' requests bring library referendum to ballot

Library seeks tax rate increase to fund books, materials, Nov. 3

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Antioch Public Library District will ask voters Tuesday, Nov. 3 to approve a tax rate increase to improve the books and materials collection, to provide more programs and services, to enhance the facility, and to improve customer service.

The proposed rate increase is 8.5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. For the average Antioch home of $137,000, homeowners will have to pay an additional $35 a year, according to library officials.

Although the 8.5 cents could raise $300,000 to improve the library, the library district would still have one of the lowest library tax rates in the county area.

District board members are now presenting information to groups and organizations which have requested a presentation about the research behind the tax rate increase decision.

"We have been warmly accepted by the groups that we've spoken to," said Library Board President Ann Kakacek. "We're being open and above board."

The decision to increase the financial resources of the library district was made after research by Corbus Library Consultants done earlier this year was presented to the board. The consultants had conducted over 20 focus group-style interviews with patrons.

"The consultant received so much positive feedback in the focus groups that he advised that we consider the referendum now instead of putting it off," said Kakacek.

In late July, Corbus Library Consultants had told the district that there was support for an increased tax rate. "Many (focus group participants) felt despite the general anti-tax mood in the district... that it was likely that the public would support a $25-$50 per year tax increase to provide better service and capital improvements."

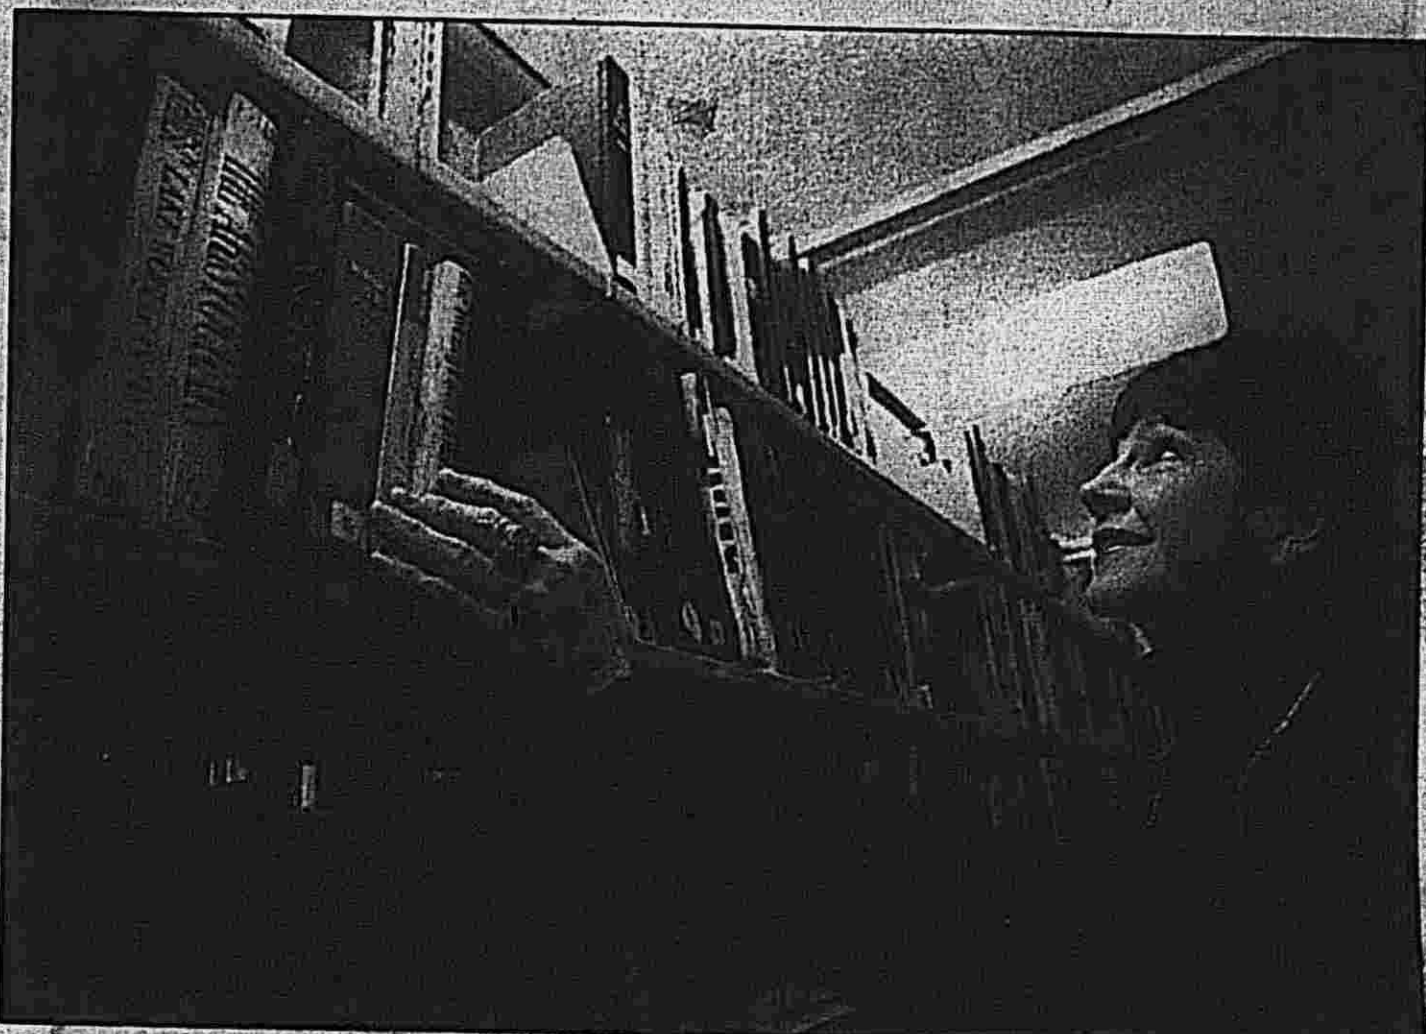

This patron feedback also helped district officials decide on the types of improvements that were necessary. The library district had last increased taxes in 1969 when they built the library at Main and Williams streets.

"These are what we decided are important, as a direct result of the focus groups: money for materials, the money for computers and patron services, and then saving for future growth," said Kakacek.

The district has information that it is distributing in the community. It explains that the library seeks to be responsive to patrons and also to provide a good library for the community and its future. Since the library was built, Antioch Township population has increased 43 percent from 11,639 residents to 20,446. There has been no tax rate increase to support this growth in 30 years.

Also, during that time, starting in 1976, personal computers began to arrive on desks and in homes.

Area libraries have tax rates and operating budgets that are very much different from those of the Antioch Public Library District. The Lake Villa District Library has a 45 cent total tax rate and an operating budget of $2,700,000. Grayslake's library has a tax rate of 41 cents and an operating budget of $1,371,000.

Today, the Antioch library total tax rate is 17 cents and the operating budget is $828,000.

Proposed library enhancements would fall into three areas. The district proposes to spend about $125,000 to $135,000 for additional materials—twice as much as was spent last year.

The district proposes to spend $65,000 for computer and other patron services.

And, the district would save money for future growth and building enhancements.

The effort to communicate the referendum is now underway. Library officials are available for talks to groups that would like to hear what is proposed. Information is given to patrons.

Lakes Band, Brass Quintet opens holiday season Sunday

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Lakes Area Community Band opens their holiday concert season, Sunday, with popular music presentations and some featured attractions that previously have not appeared with them.

"Along with a great selection of popular band pieces, selected band members will perform solo or ensemble selections of their own, and the concert will even feature a guest appearance by Antioch's very own Antioch Brass Quintet," said band President Bob Schmelzer.

"It's light, entertaining pieces," said band director Steve Porch. This is a popular performance band that plays music known by the audience.

Some of the music to be played by the band is by Tchaikovsky from the Nutcracker Suite, band compositions by Leroy Anderson, and selections by Eric Osterling which will feature the woodwind section.

"We asked the Antioch Brass Quintet to play a few pieces in the concert," Porch said. Also, three soloists will do instrumentals.

"It will be a nice, diverse program with quite a bit of appeal," Porch said.

The band itself will have a familiar, yet new, sound. New players have been added since the band's summer concert at the end of August.

Hans Plattner has joined the Lakes Area Community Band as a percussionist. "He's a great addition to the band," said Porch.

Valerie Clavette helps fill out the sound along with new flute player Lacy Sasgen. Melissa Kulesza is a new trumpet player. Holly Worthen on oboe will be present along with brother Riley Worthen on tenor sax.

Three featured soloists will be accompanied on piano by Porch. The principal flute and piccolo player is Noreen Johnson. She will play a piece by Mozart.

"She is currently a music student at College of Lake County," Porch said.

"Bob Schmelzer will play a trumpet solo," Porch said. "This is a piece he performed at the National Brass Band Championships in Dublin, Ohio a few years ago."

Antioch Howl is yowl of a good time

Scarecrow contest rescheduled for Saturday along with bonfire

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The second of three Antioch Halloween weekends has arrived. This weekend offers a variety of almost scary downtown events for children of all ages.

The village plays Halloween music, the cold night air creates a sense of fall, and the decorated downtown shopping district gives the appearance of haunted grounds.

Antioch's Second Annual Scarecrow Contest was rained-out last weekend and will be held this Saturday beginning at noon in front of village hall.

The Halloween Howl Bonfire lights up at 6:30 p.m. Saturday on Skidmore Street.

First National Bank—Employee Owned has been hosting a children's pumpkin decorating contest from yesterday to next Tuesday, Oct. 27 during bank hours. The contest is open to children in grades kindergarten through fifth grade.

Real pumpkins, decorated or carved, can be dropped-off in the lobby of the community bank at 485 Lake Street. Judging will take place Thursday, Oct. 28. Entry forms are available at the bank.

A second contest for pumpkin judging is tonight, Friday, Oct. 23 in front of Jack's Four Squires, 414 Lake Street, from 4 to 6:30 p.m. It is part of the village's Halloween Howl event. Prizes will be awarded in the following age categories: birth to age six; seven to twelve; and, 13 years and older.

Halloween Howl '98 itself is a two day event in the downtown area. The village will accommodate two age-groups of children with separate events. Younger children prefer a less scary Halloween experience, whereas older children appreciate scary, gross, and disgusting events.

For children aged 10 and under, there are events from 4:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 23, and from noon to 6 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 24. These events include: happy ghosts,

LIBRARY: Seeks referendum to increase services for patrons

Research by Corbus Library Consultants with patrons identified specific ways to improve the library. Many patrons consider the library to be a good value although they recognize there is less support for it in surrounding areas. Many patrons supported the idea of a tax rate increase. One group did not.

Corbus told the district, "One obvious exception to this sentiment came from the seniors (at the senior center) who as a group registered a very strong anti-tax sentiment regardless of the services provided."

Kakacek will continue to distribute information about the referendum and why the library is requesting a rate increase. She said that there is one group that is actively supporting a yes vote for passage, Antioch Library Friends.

The Antioch Library Friends have been posting pink signs throughout the community to urge passage of the referendum initiative.

CONCERT: Kick off season

Jeff Ouper will play what is described by Porch as "an interesting instrument."

"He plays a bass clarinet," Porch said. "He's quite a fine player."

The Antioch Brass Quintet was started by Bob Schmelzer in 1993. It is a new formulation of musicians in the long history of music.

Only in recent years, with the enormous success of the Canadian Brass Quintet, have composers started to create music specifically for five brass instruments.

"They're the ones that got the whole thing started," Schmelzer said of the Canadian group. The Antioch Brass Quintet has been able to take advantage of their material and has enjoyed area wide success playing as a quintet.

"That was our first time, recently, in Antioch," Schmelzer said. This return engagement will feature a medley of songs about American geography, and a second piece that is associated with Sunday, Oct. 25, the day of the concert.

The quintet members are Schmelzer and Robert Sven on trumpets, Elmore Falb on French horn, J. Michael Raley on trombone, and Paul Schmidt on tuba.

Tickets are available at both the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the State Bank of The Lakes. The Bank also helped print the tickets.

Parking at the high school, during construction, should be in the tennis court area. The school can be entered through the gymnasium area entrance on the northeast corner of the building.

Porch promises a good, varied concert that will please the audience.

St. Ignatians 45th turkey dinner, Saturday

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Parishioners at St. Ignatius Episcopal Church of Antioch and community residents will be at St. Peter's Father Hanley Hall tomorrow, Saturday, Oct. 24 for the St. Ignatius Turkey Dinner.

"It's the 45th annual dinner," said the Rev. Vincent Eckholm. Everyone is invited.

It's one of the longest traditions in the community, according to Eckholm. He sees it as a community event with a wonderful meal, wonderful raffles, and fine entertainment.

The dinner is served from 4 to 8 p.m. There are tickets at the door, $8 for adults and $4 for children under 12 years old.

The Episcopal Parish will sell 750 dinners, more or less, even though there are only about 225 people in the congregation.

"There are carry outs," Eckholm said. He estimates that almost a third of the dinners are purchased and taken home to be enjoyed.

The meal is turkey, squash, beans, and rolls. He stresses that squash will be served. A few years ago, sweet potatoes were substituted. It did not go over well and the Episcopallians stay with squash now.

Soda, beer, and wine are also available.

"There is home cooked deserts," he said. "There is a bake sale table." Pies and cakes can be bought and taken home.

Entertainment of two kinds is offered regardless of when people arrive. The church organist will provide music throughout the evening.

"There will be a raffle of various articles contributed by merchants, people in the community, and parishioners," Eckholm said. "There will be a 50-50 cash raffle as well."

Father Hanley Social Center is at 557 Lake Street in downtown Antioch.

HOWL: More fright on tap

happy haunted graveyard, and smiling spirits.

For youngsters aged 10 and older, there are events from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 23, and from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 24. These events include: Mummy's Tomb, Dracula's Cave, and Tunnel of Terror.

Maps are available from the village to show where these events are located.

Other Halloween-related happenings also will be underway in the downtown area during Halloween Howl. There are haunted trail rides on Friday night sponsored by Triangle Bait Shop. The rides will start on Main Street between Betty Sills Gallery and Books, Etc.

True Value Hardware/Just Ask Rental and the Antioch Coalition of Auto Retailers, A.C.A.R., will jointly sponsor hay rides which start at the True Value Hardware store in the shopping center on Orchard Street.

There will be Face Painting at Crafter's Gallery, 384 Lake Street.

Children also may experience a Spacewalk at Smiling Spirits.

Saturday will feature many of the same events as Friday evening, except in daylight. However, the bonfire is Saturday night as well as costume contest judging.

At 6 p.m., on Skidmore Drive, near the William E. Brook Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center, the bonfire will be lit and Halloween stories will be told.

In front of the bonfire, at 6:45 p.m., costumes will be judged. There are prizes in the following three age categories: birth to 6 years old, seven to twelve, and 13 years and older.

In year's past, Antioch Evangelical Free Church has sponsored a maze as an alternative to the "witch and goblin" approach to the holiday. It is an opportunity for Christians to glorify Christ and have fun, according to the church.

From Wednesday, Oct. 28 to Saturday, Oct. 31, the maze can be done in darkness from 6 to 9 p.m. Families that prefer to walk the maze with the lights on can do so from 4 to 6 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 30 and Saturday, Oct. 31.

The Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry web page, Experience Antioch, once again, has a children's coloring contest that can be entered from their web site (www.Lakeonline.com/antioch). The site also has scary sounds to download and other adventures for those with computers.

Antioch's downtown Halloween Howl '98 event is sponsored by the Village of Antioch and the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry. Other sponsors include: Triangle Bait Shop, AUGS Parent Teacher Organization, Antioch True Value/Just Ask Rental, A.C.A.R.—Antioch Coalition of Auto Retailers, The Advertiser Network, Biller Press, and Lakeland Newspapers.

A.L.L. to fund Odyssey cruise

A.L.L. Parent Network will be collecting money, starting today, to fund their Post-prom Odyssey cruise and other parent networking resources. For donations, people will receive a red-ribbon. This is the major fundraiser for the Antioch-Lake Villa-Lindenhurst parent group. The money raised will help reduce the cost of tickets for students who attend the event.

The Village of Antioch received an award from the Illinois Municipal League Risk Management Association. It was given "in recognition of an outstanding accident prevention record" with the association.

"We did not have a lot of claims last year," said Village Manager Timothy Wells. "It's the first time we've gotten a safety award."

Regional office U. S. Postal Service officials expect that the new Antioch Post Office will be open before Christmas, possibly around the first of December.

A squad car parked along Antioch streets now has a speed display attached to the roof which provides drivers feedback on how fast they are going. There is no police officer in the car, but the radar unit measures traffic flow speed and shows how fast people are moving.

"It slowed people down on North Avenue, said Village Manager Tim Wells. It helps remind people of the speed limit.

"I think it does make a difference."

Wednesday morning it was parked on Main Street just north of the Antioch Grade school.

The very excellent "Village of Antioch Community Calendar" is posted on the village website (www.Antioch-IL.org/) a few days earlier than it arrives in the mail. Residents can find the helpful calendar and stories under the Parks and Recreation Department area of the web page.

A poster and flower memorial mark the spot along Grass Lake Road where a Grayslake man was pronounced dead in a one-vehicle motorcycle accident early Monday.

William D. "Bueggie" Harbison, 52, is believed to have lost control of his 1996 Harley Davidson motorcycle rounding a curve in the road sometime between 1 and 5 a.m., Monday, Oct. 19, according to Lake County Sheriffs.

There are no known witnesses to the crash, according to Sgt. Fred Hiedke of the sheriff's office. "Reports from investigators on the scene indicate that his head struck the utility pole after he was ejected from the motorcycle," Hiedke said. It is not known why Harbison lost control of the bike.

Harbison was a member of the Death Marauders Motorcycle Club and had made his home in Grayslake for the past 20 years. Prior to that he lived in Lake Villa for a number of years.

He was employed with Boone's Cycle in Antioch.

He served in the Navy during the Vietnam Conflict.

Services were held Wednesday with burial in Pulaski, Tenn.

The Sheriff's Office is continuing their investigation of the crash.

Osmond seeks new levels of serving the community

Antioch Twp. Supervisor, Wadsworth businessman square off for state representative seat

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

At the beginning of October, Timothy H. Osmond received an award from people who have known him all his life. It was to honor his long record of community service.

For the Antioch Rotary Club, it also was a statement of what they thought he had done with his first 49 years as a resident in the community.

Today, people across northern Lake County evaluate him as a possible state representative for District 62, a post now held by Robert Churchill who is not running for the office again. Osmond seeks the office against Democrat candidate Michael Deimler, a Wadsworth businessman.

"I'm running because I want to hold the office," Osmond said.

He has served about 10 years in politics as a township trustee and is currently the Antioch Township Supervisor. Because of this past experience, he said that he does not view elected responsibilities in representative government as a negative experience.

"Public service to me is listening to people and the problems they perceive," he said. "Certainly it's helping people solving problems in those areas that pertain to government."

Osmond is a graduate of Antioch Community High School. He attended Western Illinois University in Macomb where he obtained a Bachelor of Arts degree in business. He currently operates an insurance business in Antioch.

The types of community service which he has provided Antioch over the years range from membership in service clubs to Chief of the Antioch Rescue Squad, of which he was a member for 20 years. He is actively involved with the Rotary Club and also the Antioch Lions Club. He is a member of the Steering Committee for the North Central Accreditation Committee for the high school.

Osmond is a Republican. He can explain why. "There's the traditional views of equality and independence," he said. "The party gives people opportunities who want to better themselves."

"My perception of the Republican party is one of being more fiscally conservative."

District 62 goes across northern Lake County from the recreation economy of Fox Lake to the industrial base of Waukegan. It is a district with many different problems that people want solved.

"You have to listen to what people think are problems," Osmond said. People may have solutions and there may be a role for him to play to achieve their goals.

He expects to work closely with people such as Senator Adeline Georakis. "She and I have an excellent rapport," he said.

Osmond: 'Public service to me is listening to people and the problems they perceive.'

What will he bring to politics that is beneficial to the public?

"I think compassion," he said. "I've been working, helping people for a long time." During the past several months, he has been around the district to visit with agencies and groups that work to help people.

"I see the need for money for programs for people that just can't help themselves," he said. "I can be empathetic to that."

"I promise I will work hard and be accessible," he said.

Indeed, he favors having a district office. He may have more than one if that is necessary and feasible.

"We're a conduit of information," he said. Contact with voters will help him get information to people as well as from people.

Osmond looks forward to the opportunity to serve if elected.

"I promise I will work hard and be accessible," he said. "I'm used to working with other people to solve problems."

Deimler says he will use business experience to represent people

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Michael Deimler, 39, of Wadsworth is a Democrat with a difference. He expects it to serve him well.

Deimler is seeking election as state representative for the 62nd District, now held by Robert Churchill who is not running for the office again. Deimler seeks the office against Timothy H. Osmond, Antioch Township Supervisor.

He expects to bring something new to Springfield if elected: "the basic common sense of being a businessman."

Deimler's background operating his own heating and air conditioning company has provided many skills that he expects will be helpful politically. They are the skills to run a business, to think on one's feet, to be tough enough to keep going, to be resourceful, and to be determined.

"I was born and raised in Waukegan," Deimler said. "I moved to Wadsworth four years ago." A Waukegan High School graduate, his education includes manufacturers' trade schools related to his business.

"I've been involved in the community," he said. "I've sponsored and been involved in youth groups, sports, self-help groups." He will not talk about specific groups, but rather suggests that he is a person who helps in the community with youth-oriented programs.

He is able to run for public office, now, he believes, because his business is doing well. He has good people working with him, and they know what to do. It also gives him an opportunity to make sure that his opponent has to work for the office with a real campaign. It is the lack of opposition to Osmond's candidacy that pulled him into the campaign.

"Let's have two people run," he said.

Deimler is running as a Democrat and is comfortable with the party affiliation, but he said that it is not that important to him. "It makes no difference to me," he said, when asked why he was a Democrat.

"I'm a conservative Democrat. I'm also social enough to be a Democrat."

He does not see himself with the heritage of a typical Democrat and Republican. "I voted Republican in the past two presidential elections," he said. Now he runs for office as a Democrat. The titles are not important to him.

"I believe my job is to go down to Springfield and represent their values," Deimler said of his possible constituents in District 62. He expects to be "looking at things through the eyes of the people I represent."

He is not interested in representing interest groups. He is prepared to vote in ways that may be against how he personally feels.

"This is the age of communication," Deimler said. He wants to use it to inform himself about where people stand on issues. He wants to bridge the gap between politics and people.

"There's no way to know how I'm going to react to an issue," he said. As a result, he does not have detailed position statements on issues that he can pass out. He said that he is concerned about Senior Citizen issues, property tax increases, and what he termed "the entire tollway" issue. But, there are no specifics at this time.

Deimler said that he will have to listen to people. He expects some of his voting will be along party lines just because it is a way to get things done. Mostly he wants to learn, get back to the voters, and get a feel for what they want, "and vote accordingly."

Deimler said that he has paid for most of his own campaign. Some contributions have been received from his campaign manager Adrian Massie.

His best moment in politics during the past six months has been at the Fox Lake American Legion where there was a candidates meeting.

"It was nice meeting people," he said. "It was good."

If elected, he expects that his background will have prepared him for what he will do as an Illinois District 62 Representative. Deimler said that if your goals are to represent the people, "it's not too difficult."

Moose Blood drive nets 92 pints

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

It was a dark and stormy day. People turned out for the blood drive anyway.

"It was a rainy day all day. In six hours we had 102 people register, and we received 92 pints of blood," said general chairman Ray Edwards.

"We want to thank the people who came out on a rainy day," he said. "It was a miserable day."

The Moose Lodge was filled with walk-ins and people who had made appointments to donate blood at the Loyal Order of Moose Lodge #525 on Saturday, Oct. 17 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The drive was sponsored by the Antioch Junior Woman's Club and the Antioch Lions Club.

Other sponsors include the Antioch Woman's Club, Antioch Moose Lodge #525, and Masonic Lodge #827.

Edwards said that the drive attracted donors from throughout the area. The last person to give blood drove 45 minutes to get there from Wisconsin.

"They took out 40 pints before noon," Edwards said. The blood is needed for disaster assistance and was taken for immediate processing that day.

"The men from the Masonic Lodge went out and put up directional signs twice," said Edwards. They then went home, changed to dry clothes, and came back to donate blood.

"Jane Pederson was there all day from start to finish with the woman's club," he said. She is the Chair of the Antioch Woman's Club Health Committee.

"The Antioch Woman's Club and the Junior Woman's Club worked all day."

The Women of the Moose were also helping with the registration and doing whatever had to be done, according to Edwards. He gave additional credit to Dave Thomas of the Moose Lodge who helped to secure it as a donation center.

CHAD stickers available at Halloween Howl

Antioch Junior Woman's Club members will be passing out reflective trick or treat bags at the Happy Ghost Alley during Halloween Howl with child safety information inside.

The goal of the project is to educate parents and to provide trick or treat bags to children, according to member Karen Kubin.

Bags will contain CHAD stickers, a "We Care for Children" decal, a bicycle safety sticker, and some car seat safety information booklets.

CHAD is an acronym for Children Have An iDentity. It refers to a program to affix child identification information to the right corner, under the cushion or center back of a child safety seat. Information on the sticker guides emergency medical personnel to parents if no one else is able to identify the child.

"They've been very well received," said Kubin. She said that many mothers are not aware of the stickers and that public education work like this helps mothers learn how to protect their children.

The reflective bags with safety information inside will be distributed Friday, Oct. 23 at Halloween Howl at the Happy Ghost Alley, near Party Poppers, 939 Main Street. Distribution on Saturday, Oct. 24 will be done with members of the Antioch Woman's Club.

The library is looking for support

The Antioch Public Library is seeking community support for their referendum which will increase funds for new books, materials, computer services, computer support and improvements to the library. At this time there is no plans for building a new building, the money raised will be strictly for materials, services and staff support.

The Antioch Library has experienced tremendous growth over the past few years and the demand for new materials is ever-present. The Library conducted extensive focus groups on various members of the community, and those groups voiced a desire for an improved collection, which means new books, and lots of them.

The survey also indicated that Antioch wants more materials, more computer services and the training to use those computers, a brighter entry

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

way, and more staff for helping out.

In response to this, the Antioch Library has decided to increase the operating fund through a referendum that will appear on the Nov. 3 ballot. The tax rate will be raised by 8.5¢ per $100 of assessed valuation which will still keep the tax rate lower than other area libraries. At this time Antioch's operating budget is $828,000 where as Grayslake's operating budget is $1,371,000 and Lake Villa's is $2,700,000.

The average Antioch homeowner will see an increase of about $35 year. The community has not had a tax rate increase to support that growth in 30 years. Supporting the library is supporting knowledge and education for every member of our community.

Recently, very bright pink yard signs saying "Vote Library" have been seen popping up all over Antioch in support of this referendum. These signs are available at the Antioch Library and anyone who would like to help the Antioch Library Friends or who seek further information, should call Nancy Brown, president of the Antioch Library Friends, at 838-2332.

And as always: don't forget to vote on election day.

And so goes another jingle from Pringle.

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

About Dr. Marks:

Dr. Marks is a doctor of podiatric medicine who has been caring for people in McHenry Co. for more than 15 years.

He has cared for more than 10,000 patients, probably someone you know! He has helped train more than two dozen practicing foot surgeons as a surgical instructor since 1984.

Both of Dr. Marks' offices—located in McHenry and Woodstock—welcome new patients. They accept most insurance plans and Medicare.

Q: What causes heel pain?

A: Heel pain is usually caused by a chronic inflammation (long time or recurring irritation) of the ligament that passes from the bottom of the bones that make up the ball of the foot.

The inflammation causes the ligament to get tight. When the ligament gets tight, it peels on the heel bone, causing a boney ridge to develop.

This boney ridge is called a heel spur. Typical heel spur pain is described as pain which occurs after rest, and improves when walking.

Q: What can be done to treat hammertoes effectively?

A: X-rays of the foot are taken in the office to see if there is a spur, fracture or other problems.

Either oral medication or injections are used to reduce the inflammation. A custom-made, shock absorbing shoe insert is made to relieve the pressure on the heel, and to correct the way you walk.

Y2K problem could rock local sports Jan. 1st

The year 1999 is fast approaching, and on its heels comes the year 2000. And, as many of us have heard, read and talked about in the past couple years, the year 2000 presents a number of problems for computers, software and a vast amount of things we take for granted every day.

But how will it affect sports? And will the Year 2000 (Y2K) problem have an impact on the local sports scene? You better believe it will.

I can see it now, as clear as the words marching across the screen of my Macintosh...

Holiday basketball tournaments around the county will feel the wrath of the Y2K problem.

Jump shots won't reach the rim, lay-ups will stand still in the air, and slam dunks will be impossible...

The clock ticks away, as the final seconds of this overtime game seem to melt off the scoreboard.

The Mustangs and Blue Devils battle for rebounding position, as the ball reaches its peak, beginning its gentle fall toward the hoop. But as the crowd watches intently, with each individual holding their breath, the leather sphere stops in mid-air, three feet from the rim.

The clock ticks down and the game is over, but the ball is still suspended 12 feet off the ground.

The same happens to Grayslake's Jenny Wessel, as she puts up a short jumper, looking for a school-record 45th point of the night. The ball never flew higher than nine feet, stranded between her hands and the rim.

"What happened!" the crowd would yell. No one will know until they realize it's January 1st, and the many problems of Y2K are at hand. The basketballs, used at area tournaments, it seems, were made by machines using computers that were not updated to be Y2K compatible.

The glitch caused the balls to freeze in mid-air, as computers all over the country crash.

This scene is repeated in Libertyville, Antioch, Round Lake, Wauconda and Fox Lake.

The Y2K problem is one that could have more profound effects on local sports than it does on local businesses. But not to worry, we've got our best people on the job, working long hours to prevent such a catastrophe.

But come January 1st, when all of us are awaiting the big shot in the big game in the big holiday basketball tournament, you might find yourself holding your breath, hoping that the ball goes through the hoop.

Sweet Swing

ACHS golfer Sara Groh proves she's one of the best in the state

By LEE FILAS
Staff Reporter

As her sweet swing slams into the little, white, dimpled golf ball, you swear, for the first time, that golf is indeed an art-form.

"I can drive it about 215 if I really get all of it, but I usually hit it 190-200 yards," Sara Groh said, acting as if her accomplishment is as everyday as cornflakes and milk are in the morning. "I can hit a 5-iron straight about 145."

For every golfer in the world, the term slice rings up visions of forests where the trees are thick and plentiful, sand pits that are three blocks long and 85 feet deep and one lonely golf ball, sitting amongst the twigs, under a bush, hidden by a pile of leaves that was arranged by a bird who hates golfers.

For Groh, the word doesn't even come into existence.

"No, I hit the ball straight," Groh said.

Every time?

"Yep," Groh answers, smiling. "Every time."

The scary thing is, she does. Every time.

In fact, she hit the ball straight every time Oct. 16 and 17, in Southern Illinois, where she made her first appearance at the Illinois State High School Association Girls Golf Tournament at Illinois State University.

Groh, a junior appearing in her first state tournament, took home the 12th highest score, tied for 16th place in the tournament and was two shots off from breaking the top ten.

"I don't have the facts and figures in front of me, but I would say that it was the best finish ever in the history of girls golf at Antioch High School," said Steve Wapon, Antioch golf coach. "And for her being just a junior means that we have another year of this. Next year, she is going to be phenomenal."

Which, if all goes correctly, Sara sees this for herself.

"Normally, I play softball for the school, but I don't think I'm going to this year," Groh explained. "Softball is in the spring and I want to get on the golf course early to get ready for next year. I'm going to concentrate on golf all spring and summer."

According to Groh, she got into golf for two reasons.

"Golf always challenged me," Groh explained. "Also, my family and I would always go out golfing and I liked it."

"Volleyball was so routine that I got bored with it," Groh explained. "I found golf challenging and I stuck with it."

Groh finds that in her everyday school life as well.

"If certain classes bore me, I get disinterested in them," Groh explained even though she is a member of the National Honor Society. "I need something different everyday or I lose interest. My grades are down right now from traveling with golf, but I'll pull it together here and bring them up."

Which brings us to the future.

"I want to go on and play golf in college," Groh explained. "I want to continue on after that as well."

But, before that, state is beckon-

Sara Groh, a junior golfer for Antioch Community High School, placed 16th in the state in her first appearance in the state tournament. —Photo by Sandy Bressner ing her again next year.

"My father told me before I went out that this year didn't matter, next year matters. He told me to do my best and have fun," Groh explained. "When it was over, he told me he was proud of me. I think that's why I wasn't nervous. I mean, I was surprised I wasn't."

So, remember, all of you hackers in and around Antioch, when a little white golf ball screams past your head, over your slice and lands gently on the course 215 yards away. Remember, when you turn back to the tee box and standing there, smiling and waving, is a high pitched voice yelling "fore".

That's Sara Groh, and she'd crush your game.

Sequoits just one win away from playoffs; MHS is final obstacle

By BRENDAN O'NEILL
Sports Editor

The Antioch Community High School varsity football team had one major goal this year: reach the playoffs. Many thought that goal was a bit lofty for a team with an unproven junior at quarterback and a team coming off a 5-4 year last season.

But the Sequoits still have an opportunity to reach that goal, even after a 39-6 loss to Libertyville last weekend in the mud and rain. The Sequoits are now 5-3 on the year, 3-3 in North Suburban Conference play and needing a victory in the season finale to stay alive.

Antioch ran into juggernaut Libertyville at the wrong time, as the Wildcats seem destined to finish the 1998 campaign undefeated and win the conference title outright, and Antioch was still trying to secure a playoff spot.

The buzzsaw that is Libertyville's offense was knocked off track in the first quarter, where the underdog Sequoits actually lead 6-3 entering the second quarter. But not for long.

The underappreciated Libertyville defense prevented Antioch from scoring again, and limited the Sequoits to just 106 total yards in the game. That opened the way for quarterback J.C. Harrington and the Wildcats offense, as Libertyville scored 23 points in the second quarter and Harrington threw for 204 yards and two touchdowns.

Antioch was lead by Don Lackey's 26 yards in the air on 2-9 attempts, and junior Adams Niles scored the lone touchdown for the Sequoits, also picking up 39 yards on 15 carries.

Friday night the Mustangs host Antioch in the season finale, and the Sequoits have their eyes firmly placed on a playoff spot, which they have a chance of securing only if they beat Mundelein.

The balanced Sequoits attack features junior Don Lackey at quarterback, who could throw for 200 yards on a given day, receiver Jim Richardson, who had 444 receiving yards on the year, and running back Matt Ingram, who can break out for 150-200 on any given day.

Mundelein features junior quarterback Ben Hodges, who will run the ball 10-12 times out of the option, and can easily get 100 yards. Senior running back Al Papiz, playing in just his second game of the year, is a strong, fast runner who can break any run for big yardage if he can get to the outside.

Look for the Sequoits to hold off the Mustangs and make the playoffs with a 6-3 record.

Typhoon reach semifinals

At the Libertyville Octoberfest Invitational Tournament the Lindenhurst Typhoon played four matches reaching the semi-finals. In round robin play the Typhoon faced three opponents and were dominant in all matches. The Typhoon defeated the Schaumburg Strikers 3-0, Yahara United 4-0, and the Simba Lions 5-0. The Typhoon faced a tough opponent in the semi-finals in the Polonia Eagles, from Milwaukee, Wis., and it went down to the wire as the game was tied 1-1 at the finish of regulation play.

The teams returned to the field for two five minute overtime periods and the Eagles managed to slip in a shot to take a 2-1 lead that the Typhoon couldn't recover from. Ian Hunter scored the lone Typhoon goal on a penalty kick as the Eagles had tripped a Typhoon forward in the Eagles' goal area. Hunter confidently placed the ball in the upper left corner of the net.

The Typhoon forwards scored often during the tournament and were led by Alex McKenzie with four goals, followed by Ian Hunter with three, Darren Nordstrom (2), while Danny Braun, Ryan Knupp, Aidan Moran and Alex Mayer each had one goal.

Vikings split with Mundelein; Lightweight winning streak at 60

The Antioch Vikings traveling football teams won two of four games they hosted at Antioch High School. The Viking Pee Wees and Lightweights were easy winners, with the Featherweights and Heavyweights suffering defeats.

The Viking Pee Wees won their fourth game of the year with an easy 34-7 victory over the Mundelein Pintos. Running backs Jo Jo Johnson and Kevin Barrett scored two touchdowns each and back Tyler Ankney added a fifth TD on a 10 yard run. Kyle Freeman got a safety and Tyler Bynum added extra points. Antioch's offensive line got an excellent performance from center Wesley Jockel. Defensively, Brandon Geweke and Mike Hucker each recovered a fumble. Outstanding defensive games were also turned in by Scott Hubbell, Joey Krowell, Cody Csepp, Cody Williams, and Ty Sitter.

Antioch's Lightweights won their 60th straight game 35-7. They did it without their leading scorer, head coach and six players out of the lineup. Running back Jeff Canella and back Andy Homer scored two touchdowns each in leading the Vikings to their sixth win of the season. Tim Veach scored the fifth Antioch TD and the Vikings converted on all five extra point attempts. The offensive line of Josh Paddock, James Larsen, Eric Worrell, Brian Wood, Homer Veach, and end Luke Davis. QB Tony Weyenberg did an excellent job with his play calling.

The Antioch Featherweights suffered their second loss of the season coming up on the short end of a 13-12 overtime score. The game ended in a 6-6 tie as back Mike Kroepfl scored from 5 yards out. In the overtime, Mundelein scored first on a fourth down play and added the extra pint. Antioch answered back with a second Kroepfl TD on a two yard run, but missed the extra point.

Thunder wins Racine championship

The Lindenhurst Thunder Girls U-12 soccer team won the championship of its age group in the Racine Lighthouse Classic Soccer Tournament, played in Racine, Wis.

In defeating four teams, the Thunder outscored its opponents 15-0, edging Elm Grove, Wis., United 1-0 in an evenly matched championship game. Carly Richter, age 11 of Lindenhurst, scored the game's lone goal.

Amanda Otten and Calla Myslinski played shut-out goalkeeping over the course of the tournament, supported by Amy Wollmuth.

"It was a great tournament for us," said Coach Rick Myslinski. "We played some strong soccer, especially on defense, which was the key in the championship game."

Coach Nancy Allen noted that the Thunder have been playing together for six years, winning five tournaments in that time. "What's been exciting to see, and rewarding for me as a coach, is the steady progress the girls continue to make as a team," Allen said. "They truly enjoy the game, and the bonds they have developed with each other over the course of six years are far more important than their accomplishments on the field."

At the Racine tournament the Thunder defeated the Kettle Moraine Soccer Club 5-0, the Kenosha Arsenal 4-0, and the Mequon United 5-0, before facing Elm Grove in the final.

The Thunder consists of select players from the Lindenhurst Youth Soccer League, girls U-12 division. They are tied for third in the U-12 "AB" division of the Illinois Women's Soccer league, three games into the 10-game fall season.

U-9 Lindenhurst Blaze suffers first defeat 3-2

In a battle for first place, the Lindenhurst Blaze U-9 boys soccer team went up against the undefeated Rockford Raptors and lost by the narrow margin of 3-2. The Blaze took the lead in the first quarter when Colin O'Malley gave a nice assist to Kurt Houghton who scored into the right corner of the net. The Raptors answered back by tying the score with just one minute left in the quarter on a blast from just inside the penalty box area. Andrew Stein gave a great effort but the ball trickled into the goal.

The second quarter saw both teams have scoring opportunities but the only tally occurred for the Blaze on a hand ball inside the box by the Raptors. Houghton converted the penalty kick and the Blaze led 2-1 at the half. The third quarter was scoreless and things looked bright for the Blaze with just seven minutes left in the game. However, two failures by the Blaze to clear balls out of their penalty box saw the Raptors score the tying and eventual winning goals. The Blaze appeared to score the tying goal with just 40 seconds left but an offside call nullified the score.

Standouts for the Blaze included goalies Andrew Stein and Chris Church. On defense, Matt Laine, Brian Hook and Ethan Hahn excelled as the Raptors only managed 8 shots at goal. On offense, Connor O'Keefe, Kyle Sysma and Brian Mooney kept the pressure on the Rockford team along with excellent midfield play from Stein, Houghton, and O'Malley. The Blaze record is now at seven wins and one defeat.

Talking Health

by Dr. Scott Reiser, D.C.

ARE YOUR VERTEBRAE STACKED AGAINST YOU?

Low back pain is so pervasive in our society (an estimated 34 million Americans suffer some form of back pain) that we often think of it as inevitable, if not normal. And although backs aren't supposed to hurt, the lumbar region is the source of more pain than any other part of the body.

The lower back extends from the bottom of the rib cage to the sacrum. Packed into that six inches of the lumbar area are five vertebrae, the discs that separate them, and a myriad of nerves, ligaments, and muscles. Because of the number of critical structures pressed into such a small space, it becomes obvious why problems occur. The nerves are particularly crowded in the lower back, and if they become pinched (by the rim of a cracked disc, for example), the result is pain in the back, hips, legs, or feet. The ligaments which hold the vertebrae together and give stability to the spine are frequently strained, which can cause lumbar discomfort and spasms of the iliopsoas muscles. But much back pain can be treated and is even preventable.

If maintaining your health and reducing stress is important to you, call Round Lake Beach Chiropractic at 847-740-2800 to make an initial, no obligation consultation with Dr. Scott G. Reiser. HEAVY HITTERS Defensive players love the big hit. For most, there's nothing quite like the snap of shoulder pads and helmets when a defender really lays out an opposing player. The following are the hardest hitters in Lakeland's coverage area, based on comments from coaches, statistics, and intangibles including broken helmets, cracked facemasks, broken bones, and, what one coach called, giving a player a "snot bubble" - knocking a player out.

Player

Ryan Nally, LB
Mundelein H.S.
5-11, 200 senior

Wes Anderson, LB
Grayslake H.S.
6-2, 225 senior

Mike Ryndak, LB
Carmel H.S.

Cody Ramsey, LB
Libertyville H.S.
5-11, 225 senior

Matt Van Daele, DB
Warren Township H.S.
5-9, 165 sophomore

Stats

3 sacks, 1 forced fumble, lead blocker out of backfield

0 sacks, 1 forced fumble,
53 tackles leads team

1 sack, 66 tackles leads team,
"He's a bleeder"

1 sack, 40 tackles, 2 forced fumbles, LHS' "wedge buster" nickname: Big Train

Broken hand and shoulder injury due to the power of his tackles

Coach's comment

"He's held together by about 18 rolls of tape"

"He deserves at least one in the snot bubble category."

"When he hits people, helmets pop off. He's a decapitator."

"He's like a keg of gunpowder."

"We take him out (for injury) and he comes back in. It's hard to tell him he can't play."

'You're more likely to get bitten by a dog than a coyote'

Road Runners

Wily coyotes take to the streets for the acme of urban survival; also spotted in playgrounds, yards around the county

By JOHN KMITTA
Staff Reporter

The swift carnivore nonchalantly trotted across the school grounds, oblivious to the precautionary measures being taken by those who fear him.

The coyote had caused outdoor recess at W.C. Petty School in Antioch to be canceled again.

This is just one of the recent encounters with coyotes crossing over into the growing urban landscape of Lake County.

In Libertyville last year a poodle was fatally injured by a coyote.

The villages of Lincolnshire and Mundelein have both received enough calls from concerned citizens about coyote sightings to publish informational pieces about coyotes in their village newsletters.

Frank Drummond, Wildlife Biologist for Lake County Forest Preserves, said coyotes are really not a beast to fear.

"You're more likely to get bitten by a dog than a coyote," he said.

"Because a dog is tame and not afraid of humans it is less likely to avoid people where coyotes typically shy away from contact with humans," said Davida Terry, a member of The Voice for Wildlife.

She said the only reason complaints of coyotes have gone up is because the number of people inhabiting Lake County has increased.

"The coyote population has evened out over the past 10 years," she said.

Some villages have gotten nuisance removal ordinances to deal with the coyote population by bringing in trappers.

Lake County animal control representative Len Hackl said animal control does not handle coyote control because most are captured through hired trappers. Trappers must register all captures with the Illinois Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The DNR keeps track of all coyotes trapped per year for the Chicagoland area. The numbers have steadily risen.

Fifty-six coyotes were trapped in 1993; 126 in 1994; 176 in 1995 and 256 in 1996.

The Chicagoland area consists of 11 counties. In those counties 218 coyotes were trapped in 1997, said DNR wildlife biologist Bob Bluett. Those 218 were part of 370 total coyotes trapped in Illinois in 1997 as a result of commercial/municipal nuisance control captures.

sance control captures.

Terry said people who complain of coyotes as a nuisance should realize in most cases when the animal is trapped it is then euthanized.

"When they remove an animal they don't take the time to drive an hour away and relocate the animal back into nature," she said.

Of the 370 trapped in 1997 only five were relocated to another area, Bluett said, the remaining 365 were euthanized.

District wildlife biologist Scott Garrow said there are really no restrictions on killing coyotes especially in unincorporated areas. He said other than weapons restrictions, it is pretty much open season year round.

"We have made it as liberal as possible," Garrow said.

Garrow said if a coyote is removed from an area another coyote will most likely take its place.

"It doesn't make much sense to trap," he said. "You would have to trap every year. To me, what's the point?"

Garrow said he would advise people in an area heavily populated by coyotes to keep pets and pet food dishes inside at night.

Drummond said coyotes typically eat rabbits, voles, deer mice and sometimes even a Canada goose or deer fawn. The reason they are still seen in urban areas is because of the way they change with the environment, he said.

"They're pretty adaptable," Drummond said. "They will eat wild grapes and berries."

"Canis latrans" (the scientific name for coyotes) have shown to be extremely adaptable. The species originated approximately

Downtown Antioch will be howlin' this Halloween

Downtown sidewalks, streets, and alleys become the haunted attic of Antioch's very own celebration of Halloween starting this weekend.

"It's a great wholesome activity," said Community Development Director Claude LeMere. "Come dressed in costume. It makes it more fun."

Antioch's Second Annual Scarecrow Contest, however, is the virtual opening event for the village's October holiday season. The contest is Saturday, Oct. 24, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Village of Antioch will provide clothing and stuffing material for people to build scarecrows. It will be done in the downtown park area, 898 Main Street, between Canton Tea Garden and JJ Blinkers.

The $2 donation for scarecrow material will be given to the Antioch Mental Health Association which operates the Thrift Shop at 921 Main Street. Participants will need to bring a scarecrow head, string, and accessories to personalize the scarecrow, if so desired.

Scarecrows may be taken home for yard displays or entered in a contest with first, second, and third place prizes.

There are two carved or decorated pumpkin contests in town. First National Bank Employee Owned is hosting a children's pumpkin decorating contest through Tuesday, Oct. 27 during bank hours. The contest is open to children in grades kindergarten through fifth grade.

Real pumpkins, decorated or carved, can be dropped-off in the lobby of the community bank at 485 Lake Street. Judging will take place Thursday, Oct. 28. Entry forms are available at the bank.

The second contest for pumpkin judging will be Friday, Oct. 23 in front of Jack's Four Squires, 414 Lake Street, from 4 to 6:30 p.m. It is part of the village's Halloween Howl event. Prizes will be awarded in the following age categories: birth to age six; seven to twelve; and, 13 years and older.

Halloween Howl '98 itself is a two day event in the downtown area. For children aged 10 and under who prefer less scary activities, there are events from 4:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 23, and from noon to 6 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 24.

These events include: happy ghosts, happy haunted graveyard, and smiling spirits.

For youngsters aged 10 and older who prefer the gross and disgusting, there are events from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 23, and from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 24. These events include: Mummy's Tomb, Dracula's Cave, and Tunnel of Terror. Maps are available from the village to show where these events are located.

Other Halloween-related happenings also will be underway in the downtown area during Halloween Howl. There are haunted trail rides on Friday night sponsored by Triangle Bait Shop. The rides will start on Main Street between Betty Sills Gallery and Books, Etc.

True Value Hardware/Just Ask Rental and the Antioch Coalition of Auto Retailers, A.C.A.R., will jointly sponsor hay rides which start at the True Value Hardware store in the shopping center on Orchard Street.

There will be Face Painting at Crafter's Gallery, 384 Lake Street. Children also may experience a Spacewalk at Smiling Spirits.

At 6 p.m. Saturday, on Skidmore Drive, near the William E. Brook Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center, a bonfire will be lit and Halloween stories will be told.

In front of the bonfire, at 6:45 p.m., costumes will be judged. There are prizes in the following three age categories: birth to 6 years old, seven to twelve, and 13 years and older.

Antioch Evangelical Free Church has sponsored a maze as an alternative to the "witch and goblin" approach to the holiday. The maze itself fills a gymnasium and is constructed of 300 cardboard boxes. It is a 30-minute adventure into the unknown.

The maze costs $3 and is sponsored by Scandal for Christ, the senior high school youth at the church. More information is available at 395-4117, but the maze is located one block north of Route 173 at Tiffany Road and Highview Drive.

From Wednesday, Oct. 28 to Saturday, Oct. 31, the maze can be done in darkness from 6 to 9 p.m. Families that prefer to walk the maze with the lights on can do so from 4 to 6 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 30 and Saturday, Oct. 31.

Antioch's downtown Halloween Howl '98 event is sponsored by the Village of Antioch and the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry. Other sponsors include: Triangle Bait Shop, AUGS Parent Teacher Organization, Antioch True Value/Just Ask Rental, A.C.A.R.—Antioch Coalition of Auto Retailers, The Advertiser Network, Biller Press, and Lakeland Newspapers.

When you wish on Oprah's star

She was recently featured in a sexy black dress on the cover of Vogue magazine. She produced and starred in a new movie that just opened to rave reviews. She was nominated for an Academy Award in her first movie. Her long-running television talk show has won 31 Emmy awards. She just made a recording of her new theme song. Every book she reads becomes a bestseller. She battled a weight problem and won. She is 44 years old and millions of people hang on her every word.

So who is she?

No, it's not me, but thanks anyway (ha, ha). Although I am 44-years-old which, unfortunately, is about all I have in common with the one, the only...OPRAH!

And I hate to tell you this, but that's probably all YOU have in common with her these days, either. Yet, the woman continues to enjoy an amazing popularity that, aside from the fact that she is smart, talented and loaded with character, is grounded in her audience's belief that Oprah is just like them.

This means that we Oprah-lovers either have the collective intelligence of a pet rock or we simply believe that, with a little more hard work, a great wardrobe, a chef, a personal trainer and several million dollars, we CAN be just like Oprah.

I, for one, consider myself a believer. And heaven knows I'm trying. Here are just a few of the things I'm doing in my quest-to-be-Oprah:

1. I'm working on losing weight. However, I'm having some trouble with my personal chef (a.k.a.: my husband) who believes that corn is the one, true vegetable. And I'm thinking of getting a new trainer, someone who's a little less demanding. ("Go get my squirrel Beanie

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

Baby upstairs. Hey - I didn't say I wanted milk in the pink cup - I want the purple cup. Turn on cartoons for me. Not those cartoons! What's this?? This isn't a squirrel Beanie Baby - it's a raccoon. I want my squirrel. Waaaaah!"

2. I am training for a future marathon with my dog, Foxy. This would be great, except that she is part Corgi and has very short legs. We are currently up to a two block walk. At this pace, we may be ready for a 26k marathon in the year 2005.

3. I am keeping a daily journal, just like Oprah. The problem is, I keep forgetting just where I'm keeping it. I hide it somewhere different each day so that my family doesn't read anything nasty I might write about them, but then I can't remember where I hid it.

4. I continually visualize myself as rich and successful, so that I can attract the positive psychic energy of the universe and make it happen, just like Oprah has taught me. Unfortunately, I must not be doing it right. Maybe I need to chant these words when I'm visualizing: "...rich and successful WHILE I'M STILL ALIVE."

As you can see, I have quite a bit of work yet to do in my quest-to-be-Oprah. The closest I've come is when my kids begged me to take them to McDonald's for the umpteenth time, and I declared, "No! I'm not going to eat another hamburger!"

And maybe that's my problem. After all, if we think there are too many talk shows now, just imagine what will happen if we all succeed in our quest-to-be-Oprah.

So maybe we're missing the whole point—could it be that what keeps us watching and admiring Oprah is not her wealth and fame?

Could it be her wardrobe?

Nah. Maybe it's something deeper. My best guess would be it's because, over the years, we have watched her learn and evolve and yet, no matter how "big" (or thin) she gets, she still considers herself a "work in progress" - just like you and me.

Think of it this way - If Oprah's life is a work of art, then even hers is a painting that's not yet finished.

Of course, each of our "works of art" are unique. For example, mine is more like a piece of paper with a few letters of the alphabet written on it.

And someday, with hard work and a little luck, I'm hoping to buy a vowel.

In the meantime, I've composed a little poem about this whole Oprah thing that I'd like to share with you. Maybe I'll even write it in my journal, as a reminder...just as soon as I can find it.

OPRAH'S STAR

When you wish on Oprah's star
Doesn't matter who you are
When you wish on Oprah's star
One thing is true

You can wish for diamonds bright
Or Mel Gibson in the night
But you'll never get it right
Till you...trust...you.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

A loved one turns to you for comfort after he or she has a trying experience. Be supportive, and help him or her get through this. Your efforts will be appreciated. An acquaintance asks to borrow money. Don't be too eager to say yes. Can you really trust this person? Libra plays a key role late in the week.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

When it comes to an important decision, stand up for what you believe in. Don't let others persuade you to do something that you don't want to do. If you don't look out for yourself right now, no one else will. That special someone needs to talk with you. Don't get nervous; everything is fine.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Go after what you want this week, Pisces. It's not very often that you feel so strongly about a situation. Do something about it. Those around you will respect your efforts. A loved one drops by unexpectedly. Listen to what he or she has to say.

BARGE CRUISING COMES TO AMERICA

by JIM WARNKEN,
President, North Star Travel, Inc.

The term "barge cruising" probably brings thoughts of a Huck Finn adventure where you catch a ride on one of those coal carrying flat boats common on the Mississippi.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Barge cruising is actually a very luxurious way of traveling, common in Europe for many years. Now a company called RiverBarge Excursions is bringing that experience to America, but on a much larger scale.

While European barges carry on average about 20 passengers, the River Explorer now being built by RiverBarge Excursions, will have a capacity of 198.

The River Explorer will consist of two barges, one for passenger cabins and one for the public rooms, and a towboat which will actually push the barges. (Tugboats pull and towboats push).

Since the engine of the twin-barge unit will be located in the towboat, there will be no vibration or noise in the passenger barge.

The passenger barge will have two levels of 49 staterooms each, for a total of 198. The staterooms will be named after a state and numbered in the order of when the state joined the union. The upper and lower cabin will be named after the same state. For example stateroom 118 and 218 will both be known as the Louisiana Room, since Louisiana was the 18th state. (Sorry, Hawaii, only room for 49 states).

The staterooms will all be 200 square feet and decorated according to the state they are named after with prints of the appropriated state capital, bird and flower. The upper level staterooms also boast a private verandah.

On the second barge is the Sprague Show Room which will feature jazz, country, Cajun or bluegrass music, depending on the ship's location which could be anywhere on the Mississippi, Cumberland, Missouri, Ohio or any other great American river.

Also on the second barge is the dining room, where meals are also reflective of the area. Meals consist of a buffet breakfast and lunch and family-style service at dinner with self-service snacks available 24-hours a day. Meals, as life in general aboard this barge, will be very informal.

Large wraparound picture windows throughout the public areas allow for panoramic views of the constantly changing countryside.

All meals, port taxes and even gratuities and shore excursions are included in the upfront price, which is much less than the riverboat cruises currently being offered on the Mississippi.

two million years ago. Coyotes have survived through the ice age, the Stone Age, famine and are now flourishing in urban landscapes.

There have been reports of coyotes taking shelter in drain pipes and abandoned buildings. Two Coyotes were found living in New York City in 1995.

"We consider them an animal that's here to stay," Garrow said.

Studies by the Ohio Division of Wildlife show why coyotes can adapt to such areas. The study cites the fact that most metropolitan areas are developed near major waterways.

As for a food source, rabbits, raccoons and squirrels are common in most urban areas. When all natural options fail there is always trash available for the taking.

Authorities advise people living near coyotes to keep all garbage containers covered and keep brush grass cut low to avoid the prevalence of animals.

Authorities advise those who spot a coyote not to feed it and report the its presence to local authorities for record keeping purposes.

Coyotes are smaller than wolves. They are typically the size of a small shepherd dog. They have a bushy tail, thin legs and are brownish gray in color.

Studies show coyotes are typically nocturnal and can hunt in water as well as on land. They occupy a 10 to 12 mile territory. Coyotes mate for life and the female typically bears litter of three to nine pups.

They are extremely agile and have been known to jump more than four feet high and make leaps of 14 feet in length. They typically have a top running speed of 30 miles per hour.

As for the situation of coyotes near schools despite the jumping ability of the animal Drummond suggested the school might consider putting up a fence as a deterrent but said he doesn't feel coyotes pose much of a threat.

"I wouldn't worry about it," Drummond said.

Hackl said coyotes are usually scared off by the presence of humans and also said he has never heard of a coyote biting a human.

The DNR warns that any wild animal can be dangerous under certain circumstances but documented coyote attacks on humans are very few. Only 16 such cases were reported in North America in the past 30 years and most occurred west of the Mississippi River.

Terry said coyotes have shown the ability to adapt peacefully to the humans inhabiting their territory and in turn should not be punished.

"They have learned to co-habitate with people, but people have not take the effort to co-habitate with them," she said.

Tucker and Chan a great team in 'Rush Hour'

Before you start moaning and groaning because "Rush Hour" has been in theaters since Sept. 18, ask yourself if you've seen this movie yet. If not, run out and do so, because it is still in theaters and is worth your attention.

"Rush Hour" is the most recent film from martial arts/action star Jackie Chan and up-coming comedy king Chris Tucker, who team up as the yin and yang of this humorous yet action-oriented comedy.

The film centers around the kidnapping of Soo Yung (Julia Hsu), the young daughter of Chinese Consul Han (Tzi Ma). Han is good friends with Detective Inspector Lee (Jackie Chan), who also happens to be the top member of the Royal Hong Kong Police.

Yung is taken to the United States by the somewhat mythical Juntao—a Chinese crime boss. Han, working with the FBI in the U.S., summons the help of Lee, who flies in from China.

The FBI, wanting nothing to do with Lee, sends L.A. police officer James Carter (Chris Tucker) to divert Lee and keep him out of the FBI's investigation.

When Lee and Carter team up, the comedy and spectacular stunts come to life. The two decided to work together on the case, to find Juntao and return Yung to Consul Han.

Tucker's Carter is the same fast-talking, loud-mouth, sarcastic character as in all of Tucker's movies ("The 5th Element" and "Friday"), and is in stark contrast to the non-nonsense, action-not-talk Lee, played well by Chan.

The juxtaposition of Lee and Carter is reminiscent of Nick Nolte and Eddie Murphy in "48 Hours," but with a definite '90s edge.

Brendan O'Neill

Eventually Lee and Carter get as close to solving the case as the FBI, as the climax comes to a head at a showcase of ancient Chinese artifacts where both the FBI and the tandem of Carter and Lee get dangerously close to total success and utter failure.

The fast-paced comedy of Tucker blends in well with the never-ending speed of Chan's fight scenes, and the two are a likable, if not believable, crime-fighting duo.

Chan's stunts and creative martial arts work are mesmerizing, making you believe that there is no situation that the feisty Chan cannot escape from. And Tucker's delivery of one-liners, high-pitched exclamations and extreme facial expressions go well beyond the cool, calculated Murphy in "48 Hours," this film's obvious comparison.

Based on the humor of Tucker, the action of Chan and the overall 'fun' of the film, I give "Rush Hour" 3 1/2 out of five popcorn boxes. If you see this movie still in theaters, I suggest you see it—or you can wait a couple months until it comes out on video, but it's definitely worth seeing.

From left, Chris Tucker and Jackie Chan share a laugh in the enjoyable movie "Rush Hour." The movie is reminiscent of "48 Hours," but with a '90s edge.

There is a Metra police officer that checks the train stations after midnight. Watch this guy. He was following me from Hainesville west to Cedar Lake Road in Round Lake with about one foot between his car and mine all the way. When I expressed my dislike for his driving, he had a Round Lake police officer issue me a citation for driving too close. This Metra officer is a liar. Be careful. A police officer that lies can really hurt you.

Inglewood

Bewildered

Like many other residents in Lake County, I came to live here because of the open spaces and country-like atmosphere. I support development if it pays its own way, which would be very few, and uses common sense in its decision-making. However, I am bewildered at the promotion of the Brooks Wetland Restoration and Entertainment Center in Antioch. This noble-sounding project is located right behind Main Street and, if anything, should be called the Downtown Improvement and Entertainment Center. If Antioch really wants to help wetlands, then stop wiping them out by means of annexation, rezoning, and densely populated development.

Antioch

Traffic jam

I just wondered if anyone else has experienced the ridiculous traffic problem on Route 21, Milwaukee Ave., between Route 120, Belvidere Road, and Route 137. I have to go that way to work in the morning and it has taken me up to 40 minutes for that very short distance. I wonder if the county officials have noticed that.

Gurnee

Crown the queen

We are so fortunate to have such nice people down Mohawk Drive and we don't understand how one negative person can cause so much trouble. Since you moved in, you won't stop calling the village and police with all your nit-picking. Even after construction, we all had grass seed and you were the only one that was sodded because you complained so much. Please put a cork in it and mind your own business. It's no wonder why people call you the "Queen of Mohawk Drive." Thank goodness you're not mayor. Please stop trying to run the village.

Round Lake Heights

Voice your concern

Attention, residents of Prairie View, First Street, Second Street and Hillside Avenue. Are you tired of cars flying past our narrow sidewalk-less street? Well, they are not going to close the Prairie View gates and our children are in danger. We need to go to village meetings and be heard. They want to keep the gates open and will be voting on it. Let's get together and try to avoid this.

Grayslake

How convenient

I'm calling about Wauconda Twp. Senior Service. I thought it was for the convenience of the seniors, but I think it's for the convenience of the director of transportation, because some seniors aren't taken care of.

Also, it's to my understanding that the drivers are supposed to have a physical and I heard a comment that the director had made a statement that she hasn't had a physical in eight years. I think whoever is in charge should start doing a little checking up. Who are the services for, the director or the seniors?

Wauconda

Lead by example

I'm talking about Island Lake and Wauconda. They just built a new bank, McHenry Bank, on Route 176. The other night I drove by and they have a flag display. It really surprised me because it had a light on it. I think all the municipal buildings in Island Lake and Wauconda should use that as an example. That flag represents more than a piece of material, but some people have no respect for it, even though they put it up. They're disgracing the country.

Wauconda

Get informed

I'm calling in regard to the proposal for the Deer Crest subdivision, which is trying to be put in by Savage Road on Route 173. They want to add 515 homes there. They're not taking into consideration that the traffic is unbelievably high now. They said that having an additional 1,000 or more cars on the road will not harm our area. In fact, it will cause more murders of people who can't slow down in time. Bumper-to-bumper traffic is constant and they want to add more mayhem to this road. I live right on the highway and I could possibly lose my home due to this subdivision. I don't think many people know what's going on. There's going to be a meeting Nov. 2 at 7:30 p.m. to finalize this proposal for this subdivision. They're building in the wetlands area and this will kill animals and people. I hope people come out to speak out against this.

Antioch

Need a light

Boy, I'm glad you're back. I live in Spring Grove and I'd like to comment on the intersection of Main and Wilmont Road. It's a 4-way stop and there's been many accidents. In one near-fatal accident, they took a lady away in Flight-for-Life. I think we need a flashing light up there, it's kind of a dark corner anyway. The bushes on the southwest corner need to be removed or trimmed, which would help too.

Spring Grove

Enough already

Recently at the last Hainesville board meeting, they discussed hiring a village administrator. I'm against that. We elected a mayor and six trustees to run the village. It's a small village and we don't have much money. Adding on another person that we can't afford to do the job they were elected to do is not right.

Hainesville

Long gone

I'm calling in regard to this week's question about whether Dave Wannstedt should be fired or not. If he would be held accountable for his position as I am accountable for mine, he should have been gone a long time ago. Thinking about the old saying, "you get what you pay for," if McCaskey fires him now, what would we have to look forward to?

Fox Lake

Wanted: Page of Back Stair

I have just enjoyed a book titled "The Life and Times of Britain's Royal Women" by Unity Hall, 1989, Fremont Library. Noticed was a title of a staff member at the Royal Palace. His title? Page of the Back Stair. As of 1989, there was still such a position. This position as a servant was said to be by the writer, to take night visitors to the back stairs in strict secrecy. It came to mind that Bill Clinton needed both a back stair and a Page of the Back Stair. This intrusive, overblown manner concerning Bill Clinton's human frailty, character flaws and serial monogamy value systems, needed prayer, forgiveness and some humor. Yes, maybe a psychiatrist and marriage counselor. But en-

LAST WEEK'S QUESTION WAS:

Should Dave Wannstedt be fired from his job as head coach of the Bears?

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION IS:

After the Bears' victory, do you still think Wannstedt should be fired?

casement, no. This behavior is certainly not right, but I suspect other politicians voting to oust him could not throw the first stone.

Mundelein

You're all wrong

About what that person said about "Don't impeach," and the other person who said "leave the president alone," I think they have it all wrong. What the president did is morally and ethically wrong. If the people think they shouldn't impeach him; why shouldn't we? Clinton did something wrong and the Oval Office is the office of the people of the United States. This other person said he doesn't believe the House knows what he's doing because they all have affairs. I'd like to see someone prove that. I want to see it proved. In the Constitution, under Section 1512 under Chapter 73 of the U.S. Code, obstruction of justice is considered tampering with a witness or an informant. That's what Clinton did. Under Article 2, Sec. 1, the president swore to the best of his ability to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States. That has been violated. He should be impeached and I urge Congress to get rid of this piece of garbage right now.

Lake Villa Township

Bring Ditka back

I'd like to answer the question about Dave Wannstedt. I definitely believe he should be. This is the worst record the Bears have had in quite some time. At least when Mike Ditka was coach, they did much better. They haven't done anything since 1985. I definitely think he should go.

Sharing the environment with the birds

This is a good time to write the annual birding column. What do I mean, you think all my columns are for the birds? Couldn't resist the joke, sorry. Feeding the winter birds is an interesting, useful and humane habit. Remember, though, do not start feeding, if you do not plan to keep it up, as they learn to depend upon it and are lost when you stop. Brett and I shared our sunflower seeds that we harvested, with the birds this past week. One blue jay was particularly pleased to find the sunflower head perched upon the picnic table.

A supply of sunflower, hemp and millet seed supplemented with table scraps will take care of the food matter very nicely. Suet wired to a branch of a tree is a welcome treat to many species. Last winter, I had a woodpecker visit me every day, attracted by the suet ball. A secluded corner facing south makes a food feeding station. A birdfeeder located in a hemlock, spruce or pine tree is also very good.

Though it is nice to regale birds with bread crumbs and peanuts, natural foods are best. Seedheads of Sunflowers, Zinnias, Cosmos, Marigolds, and other common garden flowers are granaries quickly found and resorted to all winter by white-tailed juncos, goldfinches, chickadees, white-throated tree, song, and fox sparrows; and many others.

The junco is one of the most prevalent of our winter bird visitors. He comes on the scene about Oct. 1 and stays until May. One way to entice him to hang around is to provide him food beginning in fall, before he finds another source for it. This is the time to teach him to feed from your window sill and insure his companionship throughout the winter. Juncos are fearless and radiate a lot of cheer in the garden. They come in shades of slate grey and are often mistaken for sparrows except when their outer tail feathers are conspicuously flashed in the light.

And who is not thrilled when the cardinal appears at his bird feeder. I have seen cardinals at all times of the winter. He makes no attempt at concealment but passes most of the time in the lower undergrowth, selecting a most conspicuous perch, and he definitely gets noticed. He has the richest and mellowest voice and whistle of songsters. The female cardinal also sings but has less volume in her song, than her mate. The cardinal nests in bushes laying three or four brown speckled eggs in April.

The goldfinch, which goes by the common name of "wild canary" wears a brown coat in the winter, but sheds it for his song of "per-chic-o-ree."

If you begin feeding the birds, you will see these and many other bird species at your feeders. It is also a great idea to keep pans of water out for them that can be brought in and thawed. They definitely will appreciate it. Until next week, peace.

Furnances should be cleaned each fall

Now that the coats and mittens are out, it's time to make sure your furnace is prepared for winter, too. The best way to ensure that your heating system will be ready to beat the winter chill is to have it checked every year. Contact a qualified heating contractor to keep your furnace working safely and efficiently, and check for the following problems:

- Rusted or broken piping could cause combustion problems for your furnace. Have them replaced and have your system checked by a qualified contractor.

- To keep your furnace running efficiently, clean or replace air filters at least three times during the heating season.

- Make sure burner flames are blue and steady. A yellowish or distorted flame could be a sign of improper furnace operation.

- If the air around your furnace is stale, humid, and/or there is soot on your furnace, there may be a combustion problem. Contact a qualified contractor immediately.

Carbon monoxide (CO) is a tasteless, colorless, odorless gas that is formed when any fossil fuel is not burned completely. Overexposure to CO causes CO poisoning, which can lead to serious illness or death. Fuels that produce CO include coal, charcoal, gasoline, natural gas, propane, wood or oil. The symptoms of CO poisoning are flu-like and include headaches, dizziness, nausea, coughing and an irregular heartbeat. Victims may appear pale, but then develop a cherry red color on the lips and ear tips. If you feel the symptoms of CO poisoning, leave your house and call 911 or the fire department for a neighbor's home.

Your furnace will turn off and on about 9,000 times this winter, keeping you warm and cozy. With the weather we have in northern Illinois, is your furnace something you can afford to take for granted?

This fall, composting can be quick and easy

This fall, a record number of American households will participate in home composting projects, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Increased interest is the result of a variety of factors, including leaf bans at local landfills, increased garbage pickup fees for yard refuse and a desire to save the environment.

While homeowners have been forced into this action, most have been pleasantly surprised to find out how simple and easy compost is.

Most people believe composting takes a great deal of time and energy, and that is simply not the case. Plus you can save up to $200 a year on fertilizers and garden products by composting leaves and grass clippings and then mixing the compost into the soil.

Follow these tips for successful home composting:

- Ventilation—A bin should be open to the earth to ensure that microorganisms from the ground can interact and spread into the compost. Also, make sure that your bin has adequate side and bottom venting. Inadequate ventilation will dramatically slow the composting process.

- Mixing—Blending products that are high in carbon (i.e. leaves and sawdust) with products that are high in nitrogen (grass clippings, vegetable peelings) is essential for proper composting. The goal is to achieve a ratio of materials that blend a 3-1 carbon/nitrogen ration.

- Shredding—Shredding leaves and other dry lawn debris is essential to the composting process. Reducing the surface area makes it easier for microbes to attack and decompose the material. A blower/shredder/vac, makes quick, safe work of collecting compostable materials by shredding eight bags of leaves into one bag.

- Watering—Keep the compost damp. Water is essential for proper composting. However, a pile that is too wet will begin to smell.

- Turning—Composting requires air. Turning your pile every two to seven days accelerates the process and ensures uniform decomposition. Look for a compost bin that makes easy, clean work of the turning process.

The Morton Arboretum is hosting several tours to observe fall colors at the arboretum in Lisle.

Morton Arboretum hosts fall color festival walking tours

The Morton Arboretum, Chicagoland's fall color headquarters, offers outdoor autumn activities for the whole family to enjoy every weekend this fall.

Colorful walking tours and Acorn Express tram tours will take revelers through the dense gold maple woods, by the brilliant red sumacs, and around unusual yellow ginkgo trees. Special programs for children will include nature walks, games, storytellers, nature arts and crafts, and more. Special fall treats, like caramel apples, will be available certain weekends.

Oct. 24 and 25

Walking Tours at 1, 2, and 3 p.m.
Ongoing activities in a family activity tent behind the Visitor Center, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Nature Connections family activities.
Entertainment by folk singers Tom and Chris Kastle, "Read and Grow" performance, and more.

Participation in Fall Color Festival activities is free with general Arboretum admission, $7 per car. The pumpkin decorating activity and food cost extra. To find out more about activities and entertainment during Fall Color Festival weekends, call (630) 719-2465.

The 1,700 acre Morton Arboretum displays colorful trees from around the world. Fall color lasts the longer at the Arboretum than any park or forest preserve—began in September and continuing through October (and sometimes into November). Call The Morton Arboretum Fall Color Hotline at (630) 719-2400 or visit the Arboretum on the web at www.mortonarb.org to find out more.

The Morton Arboretum is open daily from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. through Oct. 24, then 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. until next spring. Admission is $7 per car, $3 on Wednesdays. The Arboretum is located 25 miles west of Chicago at 4100 Illinois Route 53 (at Interstate 88) in Lisle. For more information about the Arboretum, call (630) 719-2465 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily; for 24 hour taped information, call (630) 719-2400.

Arboretum fall color schedule

The Morton Arboretum, Chicagoland's Fall Color Headquarters, is a wonderful place to discover fall color from around the world. Visit the Arboretum often to witness the transformation of more than 3,600 different types of trees.

4th week in October

Native maples past and dropping leaves, Asian maples still colorful. Oaks peak: white oak (wine red); bur oak (yellow); pin and red oaks (red). viburnums still good. Callery and ussuriian pears peaking.

November (late)

Callery and ussuriian pears continue to frost. Nice show of browns in oaks with leaves that hang on into winter (pin and hills). Crabapple fruits make their colorful presence known.

For the latest information about fall color, call the Arboretum Fall Color Hotline at (630) 719-2400 or visit The Morton Arboretum home page at www.mortonarb.org.

Depending on the weather, the timing of fall color can shift by as much as two weeks or more; however, the order of change should remain the same. Sunny, dry locations change before shady, moist sites; tops of plants before bottom; and south exposure before north exposure.

Protect trees against winter damage

Winter is approaching soon. As much as we worried about the bad weather ahead, we are also worried about our trees and shrubs, and hope that they will survive the snow, ice, winter cold and winter sun. The effect of winter conditions can be more severe on trees which are stressed. Even the salt used for de-icing streets and sidewalks is injurious for the health of the tree. There are several things homeowners can do to insure plants' survival or lessen damage.

The first protection you can offer for your trees is to site them in a good location depending on the annual weather. Certain areas in the home landscape have a different climatic condition from their surroundings. These areas, known as microclimates, should be understood and used for planting appropriate trees. A professional arborist can help you choose the best tree and the ideal location to plant the tree around your house.

In winter, the ground around the root system of the plant or tree freezes, stopping or slowing the circulation of water in the tree. This is a greater problem for evergreens. Since evergreens hold their leaves in the winter, they tend to absorb moisture from the leaves since the root system is frozen, which make the leaves dry and fall off. Winter winds also draw precious water out of the leaves. In order to avoid this, some evergreens are sprayed with an anti-desiccant (usually a wax-like substance) that holds moisture in the leaves.

On cold winter days, when the sun shines it heats up the bark of the tree to a temperature which stimulates cellular activity. As soon as the sun's rays are blocked, the bark temperature drops quickly killing the active tissues. This causes "sun scald," the symptoms of which are elongated, sunken, dried or cracked areas of dead bark. This can be prevented by wrapping the trunk with a commercial tree wrap, plastic tree guard or light colored material which reflects the sun and reduces the temperature changes in the bark.

Snow and ice can break branches and topple the entire tree. Pruning your tree before winter storms move in make it better able to carry the extra weight of ice and snow. Branches can be thinned to reduce their surface area and wind resistance. Some multi-stemmed trees and shrubs can be cabled or wired together so that they do not lean outwards, and the extra weight can be shared by all the stems. It is best to hire a professional arborist for selective thinning or cabling.

Mulch around the tree acts as insulation between the root system and the outside climate. This helps retain moisture in the root system and reduce the fluctuation of soil temperature. Make sure that the ground isn't frozen and has enough moisture before you add the mulch, and make sure that no more than 2 to 4 inches of an organic matter like wood chips is used.

If you are unsure on how to protect your trees this winter, consult a professional arborist who can advise you on the best ways to preserve your trees. You can find a NAA-member arborist close to you by calling the National Arborist Association, 1(800)733-2622, or by a zip code search on the NAA's web site: <http://www.natlarb.com>.

Frequently asked questions about breast cancer

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month. The following questions are some of the most frequently asked concerning the disease.

Q: How can I prevent breast cancer?

A: At this time, scientists do not know what causes breast cancer, thus it is difficult to determine how to prevent it. Researchers have found certain risk factors that seem to increase a woman's chance of getting breast cancer. The primary risk factors for breast cancer are age and family history. Other possible risk factors include a woman having her first child after age 30 or no children at all, starting to menstruate at an early age, late onset of menopause, obesity, heavy use of alcohol, and the benign breast condition called atypical hyperplasia.

Women obviously have no control over several of the risk factors listed above. A woman can make lifestyle changes concerning diet and alcohol consumption. However, it should be noted that approximately 80% of women diagnosed with breast cancer have NO risk factors.

Because women are unable to prevent breast cancer at this time, it is important that they perform monthly self breast exams and speak to their doctor about an appropriate schedule for clinical breast exams and mammography.

For further information on breast cancer prevention see National Cancer Institute publication What You Need To Know About Breast Cancer, available from the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER.

Q: Is there a medication I can take to reduce my risk of developing breast cancer?

A: Research just recently completed found a 45 percent reduction in breast cancer incidence among the high-risk participants who took tamoxifen (see Hot Topics). However, there was an increased risk of uterine cancer and blood clots associated with the tamoxifen.

Women who are at increased risk of breast cancer now have the option to consider taking tamoxifen to reduce their chances of developing breast cancer. As with any medical procedure or intervention, the decision to take tamoxifen is an individual one in which the benefits and risks of the therapy must be considered. The balance of these benefits and risks will vary depending on a woman's personal health history and how she weighs the benefits and risks. Therefore even if a woman is at increased risk of breast cancer, tamoxifen therapy may not be appropriate for her. Women who are considering tamoxifen therapy should talk with their health care provider.

Another drug called raloxifene (Evista) has also shown potential in reducing a woman's risk of developing breast cancer (see Hot Topics). At this time however, its use as a drug to reduce the risk of breast cancer has not been approved.

Q: How can I prevent a breast cancer recurrence?

A: At this time, scientists do not know what causes breast cancer, thus it is difficult to determine how to prevent it. The same holds true for both the prevention of an initial breast cancer and prevention of recurrence. Once a woman is diagnosed with breast cancer, research has shown that adjuvant treatments such as chemotherapy and tamoxifen can reduce a woman's chance of a recurrence. A woman diagnosed with breast cancer needs to speak to her physician about her chances of the cancer recurring, and what can be done to reduce those chances.

Because a woman can not be guaranteed that her breast cancer will not recur, it is important that she speak to her doctor about an appropriate schedule for follow up exams.

Q: What are the risk factors for breast cancer?

A: According to the National Cancer Institute's What You Need to Know About Breast Cancer, the following are known risk factors for breast cancer:

• Age. The risk of breast cancer increases as a woman gets older. Most breast cancers occur in women over the age of 50; the risk is especially high for women over 60. This disease is uncommon in women under the age of 35.

• Family history. The risk of getting breast cancer increases for a woman whose mother, sister, or daughter has had the disease. The woman's risk increases more if her relative's cancer developed before menopause or if it affected both breasts. About 5 percent of women with breast cancer have a hereditary form of this disease. These women usually develop breast cancer at a younger age (before menopause) and they have multiple family members with the disease.

• Personal history. The risk of breast cancer is greater than average in women who have had lobular carcinoma in situ. About 25 percent of women diagnosed with this condition develop invasive breast cancer. Also, women who have had breast cancer face an increased risk of getting breast cancer again. As many as 10 to 15 percent of women treated for breast cancer (or ductal carcinoma in situ) get a second primary (new) breast cancer later on.

Other risk factors for breast cancer include starting to menstruate at an early age (before 12) or having a late menopause (after 55). The risk is also greater in women who had their first child after the age of 30 and those who never had children. These factors are all related to a woman's natural hormones. At this time, no one knows for certain whether the risk of breast cancer is affected by taking medicines that contain hormones (either to treat infertility, or as estrogen replacement therapy to control symptoms of menopause). Scientists hope to find the answer to this important question by studying a large number of women taking part in hormone-related research.

Many women are concerned about benign breast conditions. For most women, the ordinary "lumpiness" they feel in their breasts does not increase their risk of breast cancer. However, women who have had breast biopsies that show certain benign changes in breast tissues, such as atypical hyperplasia, do have an increased risk of breast cancer.

Scientists are exploring other possible risk factors for breast cancer. For example, research is in progress to determine whether the risk of breast cancer is affected by environmental factors. Pesticides, electromagnetic fields, engine exhausts, and contaminants in water and food are some of the environmental factors under study.

Some aspects of a woman's lifestyle may affect her chances of developing breast cancer. For example, some studies point to a slightly higher risk of breast cancer among women who drink alcohol. The risk appears to go up with the amount of alcohol consumed, so women who drink should do so only in moderation.

Scientists are trying to learn whether having an abortion or miscarriage increases the risk of breast cancer. Thus far, studies have produced conflicting evidence, and this question is still unresolved. Older women who are overweight seem to have a greater risk of breast cancer. Although the possible link between diet and breast cancer is still unclear and under study, some scientists believe that choosing a low-fat diet, eating well-balanced meals with plenty of fruits and vegetables, and maintaining ideal weight may lower a woman's risk.

Also, recent studies suggest that regular exercise may decrease the risk of breast cancer in younger women.

Research just recently completed found a 45 percent reduction in breast cancer incidence among the high-risk participants who took tamoxifen. However, there was an increased risk of uterine cancer and blood clots associated with tamoxifen.

Q: Does hormone replacement therapy (HRT) increase the risk of breast cancer?

A: According to the National Cancer Institute's fact sheet on hormonal replacement therapy, the relationship between HRT and breast cancer is not clear. The possible increased risk of developing breast cancer is consistently cited by menopausal and post-menopausal women as the main reason they are reluctant to use HRT. Many women and their doctors have particular concerns about the effects of long-term HRT use on breast cancer risk.

One of the most important risk factors for developing breast cancer is a woman's lifelong exposure to naturally occurring hormones; the

Is a baby the right decision?

Dear Dr. Singer,
My husband and I have been married for about a year and our problem isn't about kids we already have. Our problem is we aren't sure whether or not we actually want to have kids.

We have been over the pros and cons and have talked about it for a long time, even before we were married. We are both a bit older and getting close to the time that we won't be able to make a choice anymore. I was wondering if you or your readers might be able to provide some direction on our quandary.

We both like children, however, we are quite set in our lifestyles and aren't sure if kids would fit in. We also want to make sure we are good people to be parents. Any help would be great!

H.J.

Dear H.J.,

I will also ask my readers to call me or email me at kid-doc5925@aol.com to give feedback on this issue and I will print up answers in future columns. Unfortunately, beyond getting people's opinions on this issue, no one else can really decide this one for you. Sometimes you just have to experience life instead of trying to control it and plan for it all the time. You didn't mention whether you or your husband have a criminal background or are violently insane, but those would be the only two reasons that I could think of as to how you wouldn't be good parents. A good parent is someone who cares and is willing to think about things before they do them. You are already showing that good judgment just by asking the question of whether you would be good parents. I think that any parent will tell you that you learn this as you go along. Kids are marvelous because they give you so many chances to get with the program!

I will say that if you are considering having a child now only because your biological clock is ticking, it may not be the right thing to do for that reason. You didn't mention how old you were, but people are having babies at older ages now. There is also adoption if biology doesn't cooperate with you when you are ready. Don't rush through this one!

About how enjoyable it will be...I have heard parents tell me that they have had a wonderful time with their kids from the very beginning and I have had other parents tell me that they haven't smiled in years. I think it just depends on how flexible you can be. Kids are completely spontaneous. For some people, this brings out the kid in them and for others it feels threatening because it feels out of their control. You need to decide which type of person you are before you realize the answer to your question. I also think you need to not be so judgmental over yourself. Sometimes, just the love that a child gives to you can wipe away all doubt and all fears.

I think other opinions might be helpful for you so when people email me or call me with feedback, I will print it in my column. I would tell you that you should take the pressure off of yourself and try to talk to people about their experiences. Don't use a timeline, because it will most certainly make you make decisions in a way that might be inconsistent with what you really want. Let me know what you decide when you get there!

Good luck!

QUESTIONS: Answers to frequent questions on cancer longer her body produces hormones, the more likely she is to develop breast cancer. Factors such as early menstruation (before age 12) and late menopause (after age 55) can contribute to prolonged hormonal exposure. Because of this relationship between prolonged hormonal exposure and breast cancer risk, scientists have been concerned that if a woman increases her lifelong hormonal exposure by taking HRT, there would be similar adverse risk.

Over the last 25 years, more than 50 studies have examined the possible relationship between HRT and breast cancer. These studies have varied widely in terms of study design; size of populations studied; and doses, timing, and types of hormones used; and they have produced inconsistent results.

The bottom line is that women need to discuss with their doctor their use of HRT. This discussion needs to include the benefits HRT may offer the woman, such as prevention of osteoporosis, heart disease and menopausal symptoms, and weighed against the possible risks such as an increased risk for the development of breast cancer.

Q: What are the symptoms of breast cancer?

A: Early breast cancer usually does not cause pain. In fact, when breast cancer first develops, there may be no symptoms at all. As the cancer grows, the following changes may be noted:

- A lump or thickening in or near the breast or in the underarm area;
- A change in the size or shape of the breast;
- A discharge from the nipple;
- A change in the color or feel of the skin of the breast, areolas, or nipple (dimpled, puckered, or scaly).

These changes do not always mean breast cancer, but are changes a woman should have checked by her doctor.

Q: Will I be able to be treated by my original doctor if I get a second opinion?

A: If a patient gets a second opinion from another doctor, he or she is not required to then obtain treatment from the second opinion doctor. Treatment can be obtained from the original physician, if that is the decision the patient makes.

Q: Which treatment is better for breast cancer: Lumpectomy or mastectomy?

A: According to the National Cancer Institute, lumpectomy with radiation provides identical long term cure rates as those from mastectomy, for women diagnosed with stage I and II breast cancer.

For further information on treatment options see the National Cancer Institute's PDQ State of the Art Cancer Treatment Summary for Patients (PDQ), or call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER.

Q: How long does it take to resume normal activities after a mastectomy?

A: Although the time can vary, most women find they are able to do most activities 2-3 weeks after the surgery. All normal activities are usually resumed 6 weeks after the surgery.

Q: What chemotherapy is used to treat breast cancer? What dosages are used?

A: According to the National Cancer Institute, research has shown combination chemotherapy is superior to single agent treatment. The following chemotherapy regimens are considered to be "first line" treatments for breast cancer:

- CMF: cyclophosphamide + methotrexate + fluorouracil (5-FU)
- CAF: cyclophosphamide + doxorubicin (adriamycin) + fluorouracil (5-FU)

• CA: cyclophosphamide + doxorubicin (adriamycin) + / - tamoxifen

If the disease becomes resistant to first line drugs, the following second line drugs may be used: ifosfamide, cisplatin, carboplatin, etoposide, mitomycin C, and vinblastine. Taxol and taxotere, which are derived from the yew tree, are also used to treat breast cancer that has recurred or progressed despite treatment.

The dosage of a chemotherapy is dependent on the amount given at one time, and the number of times (or cycles) it is given. The dosage can vary from one chemotherapy to another, and may be affected by characteristics of the individual patient, and the physician giving the chemotherapy.

Q: How long can I expect to live with cancer?

A: Survival is often described using the term 5-year relative survival rates, that being the percent of persons diagnosed with the cancer who are alive after five years. According to statistics from the American Cancer Society, breast cancer survival can be dependent on the stage of cancer and the woman's age at the time of diagnosis.

Women who are diagnosed with breast cancer under the age of 45, have a 5-year survival rate of 78%. This rate increases to 83% for women aged 45-64; and 86% for women 65 and older.

Generally, survival has an inverse relationship with stage of cancer at diagnosis—the more advanced the cancer stage, the lower the survival rate. The 5-year survival rates by stage of cancer at diagnosis for women of all ages are:

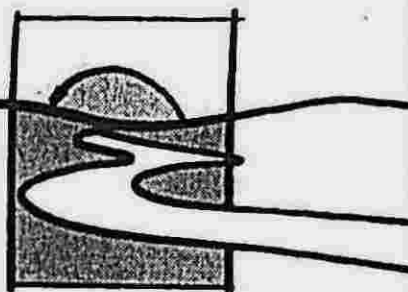

- 96% when cancer is confined to the breast.
- 75% when cancer has spread to the surrounding tissue.
- 20% when cancer has spread to distant sites.

Caution needs to be used when interpreting survival rates, since individual characteristics of the patient play a major role in that patient's survival. Because the doctor is familiar with the patient's characteristics, it is appropriate to ask them about specific survival information.

For more on breast cancer symptoms, see the National Cancer Institute publication "What You Need To Know About Breast Cancer," available from the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER. For further information on the subjects above, contact the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER.

Daily nasal spray and cleansing reduces chance of colds

In a recent report to the Assembly of the American Academy of Family Practice, Drs. Richard Ravizza and John Sutherland presented their findings that daily saline irrigation reduced the number of colds and cold symptoms of students tested at Penn State, compared to those who did not do irrigation.

Two-hundred ninety-four students were divided into three groups, one did the irrigation, one took a placebo pill, and one group did nothing. All groups kept a detailed symptom record developed by the researchers.

The group that did daily irrigation had the fewest colds and cold symptoms. The difference was significant, both in numbers and in careful statistical analysis.

The effect of irrigation to the nose and sinus has been written about for years. Natural healing is so important these days with so many bacteria becoming drug resistant. Dr. Robert Ivker, in his book, "Sinus Survival," stresses healing holistically.

In an article in an Ear, Nose, and Throat textbook, it was shown that saline irrigation can remove certain amount of virus and viral products, as well as bacteria and bacterial products, thereby reducing the load of toxins the body has to deal with.

With many infections, including colds, the cilia slow down. Hence the importance of irrigation.

Irrigation is not just for colds. Dr. Gary Rachalevsky in Patient Care, Feb. 1997 edition, wrote that regular use of the Water Pik® Sinus Irrigator is so effective that in some patients with chronic sinusitis, they may not need any antibiotic at all. At least five ear nose and throat specialists have written on the importance of using this type of irrigation before and after sinus surgery.

Especially since irrigation may make the sinus surgery unnecessary.

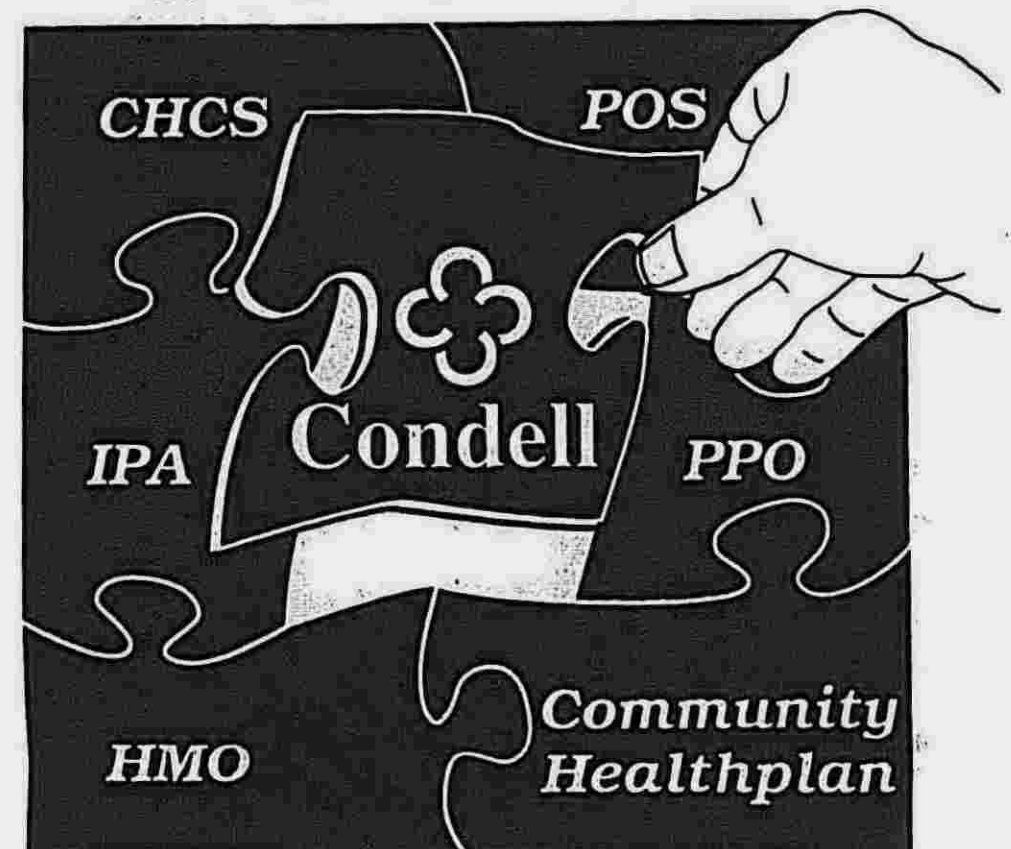

There some medical journal articles that have been written recommending the Water Pik® and Sinus Attachment for many problems of the nose, sinus and chest. These articles and information about the Water Pik® and Sinus Attachment can be obtained for free at the Hydro Med at <http://www.ent-consult.com>.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Small-business owners have two secret weapons

I frequently read articles written by writers of all types praising the success and value of small businesses. The praise is deserved, and I often join these writers in my applause.

It is true that in the past two decades, small businesses have strengthened our economy by leading the job growth parade. The Fortune 500 companies have, for the most part, been downsizing, right-sizing and otherwise eliminating jobs. Many of our larger companies have acquired others or merged to form still bigger conglomerates.

In the case of the mega-mergers, both of the companies tout the benefits that will come with the merger. This is actually a public relations tool to keep stock prices going up so that new investors will climb on board. Both companies promise rising profits because of the "economies of scale" that come with being bigger, and the elimination of duplicate and nonessential jobs. (Nonessential unless of course it happens to be your job they are eliminating.)

Recently, I read an article by the well-known and respected Texas economist, M. Ray Perryman. In his column titled, "Praising Small Business," he discussed traditional economic theory from the "bigger-is-better" perspective. Perryman pointed out that historically big companies could produce goods at lower cost because of the "economies of scale." Society benefits from the more efficient production of goods through lower prices.

After reading Perryman's column, I began to consider the small business versus large business question in my mind. With all the advantages big businesses have, how can small businesses still be surviving? Furthermore, how can so many be thriving? Why aren't the little guys stomped out of business in a heartbeat?

After considerable thought and study I came up with a theory. In layman's terms, a theory is a pretty good guess at why things work the way they do. For a theory to be generally accepted, it must have some evidence in support of its claims. Therefore, I present to you Taylor's Theory of Small-Business Survival. I devote the remainder of this column as evidence to support my theory.

Two Survival Weapons

The first part of my theory states that small businesses succeed because the owners have an intense desire to succeed. I call this element the want to factor.

The want to of the men and women who set out to conquer the business world is awesome. The courage they summon to take on big challenges and big competitors is often a mixture of pride, ignorance and fear.

Andrew Jackson said, "One man with courage is a majority." And so it is with many entrepreneurs, they go against the odds with a spirit that cries, "I can." They grow because they try and learn. They succeed because they persevere.

The second portion of my theory states that many small businesses succeed because they have no choice. I call this the got to factor.

Their backs are against the wall. They have poured their very lives into their businesses. Every dime

Internet prompts revolution in college education

New opportunities abound to fill need among working people

A young female cable installer with two small children wants to get a college degree but cannot leave her children alone in the evenings to attend classes. A middle-aged construction worker wants to take college courses but there is no campus nearby. A female executive needs to get her master's degree in order to get promoted, but is too overworked to attend a three-hour evening class two times a week. Are their educational goals out of reach?

Not at all, according to D. Quinn Mills, Harvard University professor and chairman of New Promise, a Web site supermarket (www.newpromise.com) that helps people find the college courses they need on the Internet.

Cost, convenience and accessibility are driving a cyberspace revolution in education. Thousands of college courses are now being offered on the Internet, allowing people to attend class at home or while taking a break at work, at a very affordable cost.

Today, you can find more courses under more topics on the Internet than on any one campus anywhere, states Professor Mills. And new methods of Internet teaching are improving at a rapid pace, including perfect audio, real-time and 3-D images. Soon course texts will include frequent updates from the author of the text, as well as the professor who is teaching the course, and you'll be able to key in questions that come to mind as you're reading the assignment.

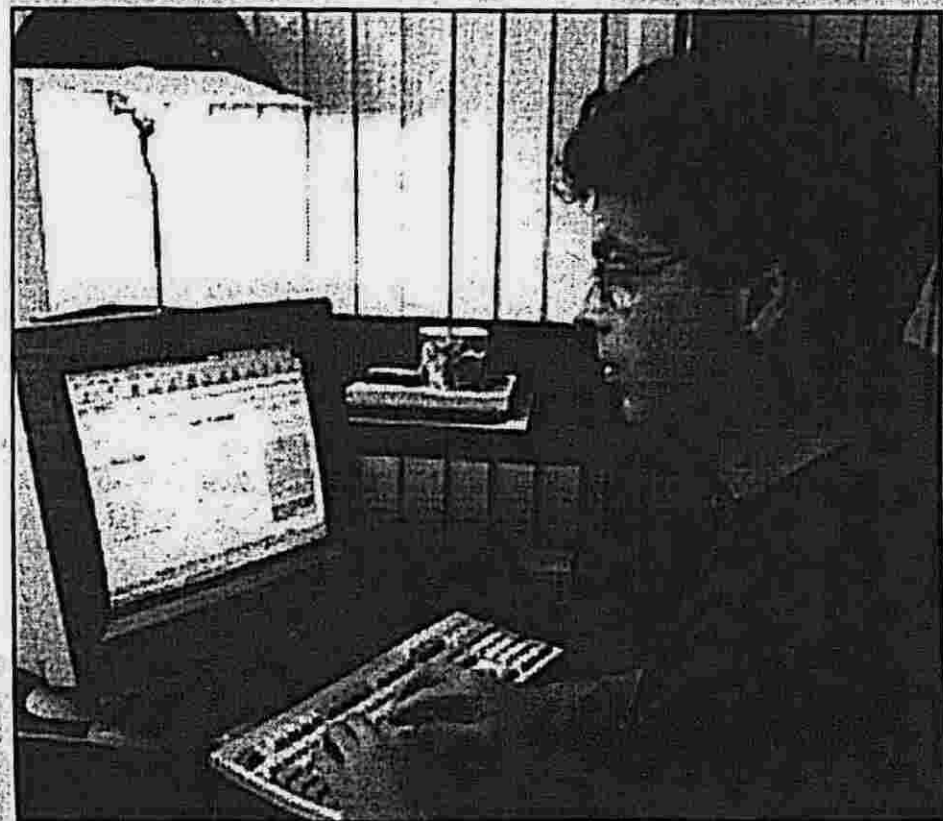

New software will immediately answer your questions as well as search the entire course reading assignments in search of possible themes.

Students across the nation are embracing education via the Internet. Eighty-five percent of the students taking classes on the UCLA Extension Internet say their learning experience is as good as or better than that of the on-campus classroom. Many prefer the e-mail chat groups with fellow students that help them explore assignments together, as well as the ability to view a lecture or a visual demonstration again and again. Many students also find it less intimidating to ask questions through e-mail than in a traditional classroom setting.

Online courses are also a great alternative for physically challenged students, traditional students who have a conflict in their class schedules, and individuals who simply can't afford the usual tuition fees.

But, how do individuals who want to pursue their education locate and sort through the thousands of college courses being offered on the World Wide Web? This dilemma prompted the creation of the New Promise Web site, which helps people carefully select the appropriate college courses by describing and rating them, then listing them by title, topic (math, economics, etc.), college or university, and degree program.

"We've positioned New Promise at the forefront of the coming revolution in cyberspace," notes Mills. "It's Sifting through the many college courses now available on the Internet doesn't have to be a daunting task. Students can visit www.newpromise.com to review course descriptions and ratings as well as listings by title, college and degree program.

the portal to higher education on the Internet." He adds that New Promise lists only fully accredited schools and is the only comprehensive source of its kind. Currently New Promise lists over 600 courses, including ones from Harvard, UCLA, and Michigan State University.

Certainly, online education is only expected to increase, as the quality of Internet education skyrockets and the cost of computers and Internet Service Providers (ISPs) continues to decline. Today there are more than 100 million users accessing the Internet; in the next seven to 10 years, experts predict the numbers will top one billion.

For more information on cyberspace education, contact the Carol Nashe Group at 888-562-2874, or visit the New Promise Web site at www.newpromise.com.

Top 10 mistakes people make when purchasing a home

For most people, a home is the biggest investment they will ever make. However, few people do the research necessary to make a good buying decision. The home-purchase process is extremely confusing for most people. With a little bit of homework though, and some advice from family and friends who have been through the process before, you can make this a little easier on yourself. There is no substitute for taking the time to educate yourself before you buy a house, which typically costs you 25-40 percent of your gross income!

Buying a house

1. Looking for a house without getting pre-approved.

Do not confuse pre-approval with pre-qualification. During the pre-qualification process, a loan officer asks you a few questions and then hands you a pre-qual letter. The pre-approval process is much more complete.

During pre-approval, the mortgage company does the same work as for full approval, except for the appraisal and title search. Once you are pre-approved, you become like a CASH BUYER and have more negotiating clout with the seller. Home buyers can save thousands of dollars as a result of being in a better negotiating situation.

Many mortgage companies will pre-approve you at little or no cost. They typically will need to check your credit and verify your income and assets.

2. Making verbal agreements!

If an agent tries to make you sign a written document that is contrary to his/her verbal commitments, don't do it! For example: if the agent says that the washer will come with the house, but the contract says that it will not—the written contract will override the verbal contract.

3. Choosing a lender just because she/he has the lowest rate. Not getting a written good-faith estimate.

While rate is important, you have to look at the overall cost of your loan. This includes looking at the APR, the loan fees, as well as the discount and origination points. Some lenders include origination points in their quoted points, while other lenders add an origination point in addition to their quoted points. So when one lender says 2 points they mean 2 points, whereas another lender means 2 points plus 1 origination point.

There is no substitute for asking family and friends for referrals and for interviewing prospective mortgage companies.

4. Choosing a lender just because she/he is recommended by your realtor.

Your realtor is not a financial expert. They may not know what's the best loan for you. The realtor only gets a commission when your house closes. As a result, the realtor may refer you to a lender that is sure to close the loan, but not necessarily the lender that has favorable rates or fees.

We recommend shopping for a loan with at least three mortgage companies before you make a decision.

5. Not getting a rate lock in writing. When a mortgage company tells you they have locked your rate, get a written statement which details the interest rate, the length of the rate lock, and details about the program.

6. Using a dual agent (an agent who represents the buyer and the seller on the same transaction).

Buyers and sellers have opposing interests. In most normal situations, dual agents cannot be fair to both the buyer and seller, and they represent sellers more strongly than buyers.

7. Buying a house without a professional inspection. Taking the seller's word that they have made repairs.

Unless you are buying a new house with warranties on most equipment, it is highly recommended that you get a property inspection, a roof inspection and a termite inspection. This way, you will know what you are buying.

8. Not shopping for home insurance until you are ready to close.

Start shopping for insurance as soon as you have an accepted offer.

9. Signing documents without reading them.

Do not sign documents in a hurry. Whenever possible, try to get documents that you will be signing ahead of time so you can review them.

10. Making your moving plans too tight.

Example: You give notice to your landlord to end your lease on a Friday and arrange for movers to come to your house on Friday. Then, your loan closing gets delayed until the next Tuesday. A better plan is to allow for a 5-7 day overlap between closing and moving. In the long run, it is not nearly as expensive and it will sure give you peace of mind.

Del Re sued

payback in employee firings*

By LEE FILAS
Staff Reporter

A federal judge will decide whether Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re fired two part-time Sheriff Marine Unit employees as a political payback for their support of his opponent during the March '98 primary election.

On Sept. 28, Salvador A. Martinez and Judith Konstans, through their attorney, Brian D. McCarthy of the Harrison Law Offices P.C. in Woodstock, filed a civil law suit in United States Federal Court, claiming Del Re violated their first amendment rights and dismissed them for supporting his opponent, Willie Ray Smith, during the primary.

Both are asking for $50,000 and reinstatement as Lake County Sheriff Marine Unit employees, as well as punitive damages and court costs in the law suit against Del Re.

Also, according to the law suit, Chris Konstans, Judy Konstans husband, has filed suit against Del Re because of an inter-departmental memo released to all Lake County Sheriff Deputies stating deputies in the field are no longer allowed on the premises of Chris Konstans' business, the All-in-One gas station located at 27161 West Grass Lake Road in Antioch.

Chris Konstans is also asking for $50,000 and punitive damages for lost revenue against Del Re and the sheriff's office.

In June, Martinez and Konstans came forward to Lakeland Newspapers and claimed that Del Re fired them against their first amendment rights for their political affiliations.

According to Del Re in June, the reason for the letter and the dismissal of Konstans was due directly to derogatory pictures and sayings that were being publicly displayed at the All-in-One gas station, which Del Re felt were slanderous to himself and the sheriff's department.

"It's important to emphasize that this was an employee of the Sheriff's office," Del Re stated in previous interviews about the firing of Konstans. "We will not tolerate (the pictures), and we are deeply offended for the very offensive actions taken by her."

According to Del Re, he heard of the photos and went to the All-in-One to see them for himself. At the gas station, he took pictures of the derogatory photos displayed by Konstans, and fired Judith Konstans on the spot. A notice of termination was released to Konstans on April 13, while the interdepartmental notice about the banning of officers at the All-in-One was released on April 10.

"I reserve the right to place certain restrictions on where Lake County Deputies are allowed to go," Del Re countered. "Until I am certain that they are no longer besmirching the Lake County Sheriff's Office, the All-in-One will remain off limits."

Both Chris and Judith Konstans, as well as Salvador Martinez have refused to comment on the law suit filed.

The Martinez suit still remains a mystery, however. Martinez was fired from the Lake County Marine Unit on March 20, three days after the March primary.

Building official terminated

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
City Editor

A long-time Lake County building official has been terminated for alleged misconduct involving his duties with the county.

Last week, the county sent a letter of termination to Robert Streicher, who headed up the building division of Lake County's Planning and Development Department.

"Last Friday, a letter of termination was directed in regards to Mr. Streicher's employment," said Lake County Board Chairman Robert Grever. "I don't know if he's going to appeal that decision or not."

Streicher of Lake Villa worked for the county for 30 years, and had been the director of the former Building and Zoning Department until it merged with the county Planning, Zoning and Environmental Quality Department in 1995.

Prior to the termination, Streicher had been placed on administrative leave, with pay, pending an investiga-

Plan brings environmentalists, business officials together

Lake County board settles on comprehensive plan

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
City Editor

Environmentalists and business people may often seem to be at opposite ends of the spectrum when it comes to economic development issues.

But, a new comprehensive study has brought environmental and business leaders of Lake County together to reach a consensus on ways to promote economic development, while preserving the county's precious natural resources.

Dr. Gretchen Naff, president of the College of Lake County, presented a preliminary report to the Lake County Board last week on "A Consensus Plan For Enhancing and Preserving Lake County's Quality of Life."

The plan was developed by a committee made up of about 20 business and environmental leaders from Lake County.

The committee was formed in early 1997 to ease the confrontational tone of discourse on natural resource preservation and economic development issues that has existed since the county unveiled its strategic plan in September 1995.

Naff said people with vastly different points of view worked together to identify areas of common ground.

"We know a lot more than we did when we first started," she said. "It's obvious we needed to make strides in these areas so we could have the quality of life Lake County wanted."

Some areas of common ground the committee identified include:

- the need for a strong economic base, accomplished through workforce development, business retention and the expansion of existing Lake County businesses.

- comprehensive planning policies to determine what land is appropriate for preservation and/or economic development.

- the need for preserving Lake County's unique natural resources and cultural heritage, including the establishment of a Natural Resource Commission and a Cultural Preservation Commission, the completion of various trail and waterway systems, and the adoption of a historic preservation ordinance.

*'One of the reasons Lake County has a good strong economic base is it's a wonderful place to live.
You can't just pave it over and make a parking lot.'*

Charles Bartels
Environmental committee member

- the promotion of policies that support attainable housing, transportation alternatives and infrastructure improvements.

Joyce O'Keefe, associate director of the Openlands project, a non-profit organization committed to preserving natural open lands, served on the committee that drafted the plan.

O'Keefe said the development of the consensus plan does not mean committee members agreed on every issue, but shows how people with different points of view can work together.

"One might assume that we compromised on all these issues, but that wasn't the case," said O'Keefe. "It was a consensus building process."

O'Keefe said the committee discovered there were many areas of agreement between people who have environmental concerns and business people and developers.

For example, she said, developers often prefer to "cluster" a large number of homes into a relatively small dense area such as a subdivision development.

O'Keefe said the clustering of homes, if done properly, can also be an environmentally sound practice because it helps to preserve natural open space.

"In many communities, density is a dirty word, but reasonable density can really accommodate some of the most delightful types of natural preservation," she said.

O'Keefe pointed to the Prairie Crossing Development in Grayslake as one example of an environmentally sensitive residential development that uses clustering of homes and incorporates natural green space and trees.

Some golf course developments, like the Merit Club of Lake County, are also using environmental practices to reduce the use of pesticides and prevent water runoff, she said.

Charles Bartels, another committee member who works for the area support center of Manpower, said the business community realizes it needs to be sensitive to environmental concerns in order to attract the right type of development to the county.

"One of the reasons Lake County has a good strong economic base is it's a wonderful place to live," he said. "You can't just pave it over and make a parking lot."

The committee will make a more detailed presentation of its specific findings during a special meeting on Nov. 12. The meeting will be from 8 to 10 a.m. at the College of Lake County in Grayslake.

SUED: Accused of political payback

According to the letter sent to Martinez from Sgt. Rodney Brown, the Lake County Marine Unit Supervisor, there is no indication as to why Martinez was terminated from his position after spending eight years on the force.

Also, Del Re refused to comment on the firing of Martinez in June, claiming that the real issue behind Martinez's firing has not been made public yet.

"There is nothing political in this," Del Re said. "This situation has just not made itself public yet."

Del Re has refused to comment on the pending litigation against him, reiterating his belief on commenting on any pending litigation within his office.

"We will defend the allegations aggressively in the court system, and I feel they are easily defensible," Del Re said. "I don't think the newspapers are the appropriate forum to discuss personnel matters. I feel the appropriate forum is the court system. Other than that, I have nothing additional to say," he added.

"Well, it has made itself public now," said Lake County Board Member Carol Calabresa (Dist. 15-Libertyville), and a member of the Lake County judicial committee. "This concerns me and I'll definitely be looking into it."

"We have worked hard at the county board to bring more professionalism not only the sheriff's department, but also the county employees, requiring more education and college credited courses to the departments," Calabresa continued. "Right now, I feel we need more information about it, but I definitely will be talking to the sheriff about it."

OFFICIAL: Fired for conflict of interest

The investigation was headed up by Special Assistant State's Attorney Dan Field.

It stemmed from allegations that Streicher issued a building permit for a project in unincorporated Lake County and then did contract work on the job, according to Grever. Grever said that activity violates both county employment rules and federal BOCA rules involving government contracts.

Field said the county's investigation concluded that there was sufficient evidence to substantiate the charges of improper conduct.

However, he emphasized that the termination of Streicher's employment was a county personnel matter, not a criminal matter.

"There has never been a criminal investigation opened against Mr. Streicher," Field said.

State's Attorney Michael Waller reiterated his office has no plans to bring criminal charges against Streicher. "There's no pending criminal charges against Robert Streicher," he said, adding: "It's a personnel matter."

Even though no criminal charges have been brought, Grever said the county felt it needed to take appropriate action to deal with the alleged misconduct.

"For the sake of the department, hopefully, it is resolved. Anytime you have something like this going on in one of your departments it can be somewhat disruptive," he said.

Streicher's telephone number is unlisted and he could not be reached for comment. County rules and procedures give Streicher the right to appeal the decision.

Streicher has hired a private attorney, Richard Merel, to represent him in the matter. Merel could not be reached prior to Lakeland's deadline Wednesday.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

State funds in hand for project

Wauconda—Smiles were all around village hall Oct. 20 with the presentation of $200,000 in state funds to help build a village owned senior citizens apartment complex in town. A representative of the office of St. Rep. Mark H. Beaubien, Jr. (R-Barrington) made the check presentation to Mayor James Eschenbach, who was more than pleased to accept.

"This puts the village on the way to something I wanted for the village for a long time," Eschenbach said. "With this help we will realize this now." The funds will be used to plan and design for approximately 100 reduced rent apartments to be constructed on 6 acres of village owned property on Larkdale Row, one block north of Route 176. "I believe we will move forward on this project by early spring or summer," Eschenbach said.

Residents fight crime, drugs

Ingleside—A group of Ingleside residents want to take their neighborhood back from alleged drug users who have congregated in the area southeast of Fox Lake. A Flashlight March Against Drugs And Crime is being held Saturday Oct. 24, starting at Blackhawk Avenue and Rollins Road.

Leading the march among Fox Lake and Lake County law enforcement officials is Lisa Lenz, an area homeowner and coordinator of the march. "We are trying to take back what is our, give our children safe streets and a community where we can all feel safe," Lenz said. "We need to show our children that drugs and crime are wrong, and will not be tolerated," Lenz said. "If we don't stand up and fight, who can we blame but ourselves when our kids become involved."

Trustee appointment delayed

Fox Lake—History will have to wait, as Mayor Jim Pappas did not make an appointment to the village board this week. Pappas announced his decision to wait until the Nov. 2 board meeting to make a recommendation, which he said will be a high school senior.

"This isn't something that you rush," he said. "You need to do it right, and it is not something you do a lot, usually." Initially, Pappas said he needed to make his recommendation at the Oct. 19 board meeting, until he determined former Trustee Alberta Meyer resigned on Sept. 8, giving him until the board's first meeting in November, 60 days from the resignation, the maximum allowed by the Illinois State Statute.

Republicans host annual dinner

Antioch—Republicans will gather at Maravella's Restaurant in Fox Lake Wednesday, Oct. 28 at 7:30 p.m. for their annual dinner.

Deputy Republican Leader Robert W. Churchill is the special guest of honor at the dinner.

Tickets may be available at the door, but reservations are recommended.

Party leaders Senator Adeline J. Geo-Karis; Illinois congressional representatives Phillip M. Crane and John E. Porter; candidate for District 62 representative Timothy H. Osmond; Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re; and other elected Republican officials and supporters will attend the annual dinner.

Tickets are $25 and are available from Club Secretary Lillian M. Golonka at 395-1872; Club Treasurer Joanne D. Osmond at 395-1147; or Len Mattson at 395-1989.

Park district creates Haunted Trail

Lindenhurst—Lindenhurst Park District employees once again have created one of their favorite community events, the Haunted Trail and Bonfire.

"It's a great community event," said District employee Kathy Kohler. "We add new events every year."

The Haunted Trail and Bonfire takes place on Saturday, Oct. 24 at Forest View Park. The haunted trail is available to families at hours set for specific age groups. Some children prefer a benign experience whereas other children are quite content to view the most gross, disgusting, and foul examples of putrefied ectoplasm. The park district provides a choice, more or less.

From 4:30 to 6 p.m. families with children 6 years and under may use the haunted trail. This is a late afternoon family experience.

From 6:30 to 8 p.m., families with children 7 and up may use the haunted trail. This provides a darker evening atmosphere for families with children.

Forest View Park where many of the events are held may be reached by taking Grass Lake Road to Waterford Drive. People may then travel a half block to Forest View Road, turn left, and go one block to the park entrance.

Lions to serve breakfast Sunday

Lake Villa—Lake Villa Township Lions will serve pancakes and Texas toast at their semi-annual Pancake Breakfast this Sunday, Oct. 25 at the Lindenhurst Civic Center on Old Elm Road.

Meals are served from 8 a.m. to noon.

Tickets are $4, and children under 6 are served for free.

For the first time, Lions will be serving Texas Style French Toast as a pancake alternative.

It is also possible to make the breakfast especially unique for a gathering of family or friends. For an additional $20 donation, Lions will reserve a decorated table. It provides an opportunity for people to celebrate a special occasion or to have friends get together.

Brainerd could function as library

Libertyville—With a lot of work the Brainerd building can function as a library, but in its current state it cannot.

That was the result of an evaluation of the site by the firm of Meyer, Scherer & Rockcastle, Ltd. as presented to the Cook Memorial Library Board Tuesday night.

The site with a proposed 240 space parking lot is suitable for a 90,000 square foot building. D. Jack Poling, a representative of the firm, said. He also said the exterior facing of the building could be saved although the entire interior would have to be renovated.

Poling said based on parking and the exterior of the building the Brainerd Building and its site are suitable for reuse as a library facility. As it stands, it is not structurally capable of being a library because the existing building would not meet the requirement of being able to support 150 pounds per square foot, Poling said.

Floors would need to be reconstructed, exterior windows and doors would need to be replaced, existing facilities (mechanical, plumbing, electrical) would also need replacing, a new roof should also be provided, Poling said.

Grayslake—The Grayslake Fire Protection District is hoping to pass a referendum placed on the November 1998 ballot.

The referendum asks for a tax increase from 34 cents per every $100 of assessed valuation to 50 cents per every $100 of assessed valuation. The proposed increase would raise the tax bill of a home valued at $150,000 by $6.41 a month.

"We are a separate taxing entity from the village," noted Grayslake Fire Chief Don Mobley. "We get no other funding except from property taxes."

Teacher pleads not guilty

Libertyville—The former Libertyville High School teacher charged with sexual abuse has plead not guilty to the charges.

Andrew Warfield, 46, entered the plea on Oct. 14 through his attorney Tom Briscoe denying charges stemming from two separate incidents with the same 16 year old female student.

The first incident occurred sometime between Sept. 1 and December 31 of last year. Warfield allegedly met with the student in the school library and then took her to a storage closet. While they were still in the closet Warfield allegedly put his hands on the victim's breasts.

The second incident occurred sometime between January 1 and May 31 of this year. Warfield met the same student at a rendezvous point in Highland Park, he gave the girl some wine allegedly put his hand down the front of her pants, molesting her, Assistant States Attorney Steve Scheller said.

Warfield was awaiting sentencing on contributing to a delinquency of a minor in a separate case involving another 16 year old female student when the new charges were filed against him.

The trial for the new charges is scheduled for Jan. 4. Warfield is currently free after posting 10 percent of his $100,000 bond.

Dist. 114 goes out for referendum

Fox Lake—District 114 has decided it's time to ask voters to approve a $12.3 million construction referendum on the November ballot on order to build an addition to Stanton Middle school.

"It has become time for us to update the school system as a whole," said Michael Lescher, District 114 vice president "The referendum and construction committee has decided that this was the best way of achieving that."

According to Lescher, Dist. 114 is looking to add a new two-story wing onto the existing building at Stanton Middle School. The wing, when completed, will be occupied by the middle school kids that currently are at Stanton, while the kids from Forest and Lotus will transfer to the existing Stanton School.

Forest and Lotus school will be put up for sale after the new Stanton wing opens. The referendum is asking for $12.3 million.

Two men break in for a smoke

Round Lake—Two men who allegedly broke into the Shell Kwik Pantry at 1306 Hainesville Road in Round Lake Beach are facing possible felony charges for burglary.

The burglary was discovered on Oct. 18 at 12:50 a.m. after a person who delivered newspapers to the establishment noticed the front glass entry door was shattered. The damage to the door was estimated at $500.

According to police reports, the clerk who had locked up the Kwik Pantry the night before had not turned on the alarm.

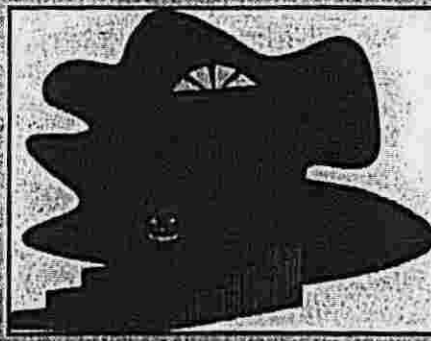

Missing were three cartons of Marlboro cigarettes worth $72. The cash register was moved slightly, but showed no signs of forced entry.

ENDORSEMENTS

U.S. Congress Dist. 8

Congressman Phil Crane, who represents the 8th District which includes northern and western Lake County, is a respected senior in the Republican Party, whose record shows consistent support for his constituent's strong conservative views.

Challenging his 15th reelection bid is Democrat Mike Rothman, who has done little to gain recognition in the race.

U.S. Congress Dist. 10

John Porter's reputation as an effective spokesman for his constituents has earned him an uncontested victory, Nov. 3. His record for moderation is hard to beat.

State Representative Dist. 52

Mark Beaubien, Jr., has been a strong advocate for his constituents since taking office two years ago. He has worked diligently to bring additional funds to the Round Lake Schools and has quickly become an effective representative for the area. Beaubien, whose tenure on the county board was lackluster, has found his niche in Springfield.

His opponent Democrat Bill Husko of Mundelein offers voters a choice in the race. A retired union leader and blue collar worker, he has strong views with merit on improving transportation and funding education through budget surpluses.

Baubien is endorsed for his proven ability to get the job done.

Garrett

Democrat Susan Garrett is facing Republican Christopher Stride in this eastern Lake County seat, being vacated by Corrine Wood in her run for Lt. Governor.

Garrett has taken to the streets running a hand-to-hand campaign, promising to remember constituents in North Chicago and Waukegan when elected and has made it clear she will be an independent in Springfield.

Stride, a former Assistant Lake County State's Attorney, has strong backing from party regulars and is adequately prepared for the job at hand.

Her independence and proven work ethic follows in the footsteps of John Matijevich, a moderate voice of reason in the legislature. We support Garrett who is sure to be the voice of the people in the socially and economical diverse district.

State Representative Dist. 61

Democrat Geraldine Callan has chosen a tough opponent to defeat in the hard charging Andrea Moore.

Moore has always been a strong proponent of schools and a voice for her central Lake County district. Her successful legislation to consolidate village and school elections, will have strong impact throughout the state in tying growth to school issues.

Callan, a retired school teacher, has a decent command of the issues. The biggest difference between the two candidates is Callan's opposition to Charter Schools.

Moore is endorsed for her record of fighting hard for Dist. 61.

Osmond

Tim Osmond will continue the leadership stance of his predecessor in the district, Bob Churchill. Churchill chose to relinquish the seat he has held for 18 years to pursue state wide office.

The Democrats had an opportunity to find and run a qualified candidate in this race and a chance to win, but Mike Delmler of Wadsworth, seems to have never gotten out of the starting gates.

Osmond will need Churchill's knowledge as a crutch, but he has the potential to serve the district well.

We support Osmond.

Helander

Democrat Linda Hess was well-liked and well-respected during her 12-year stint as Lake County Clerk.

Republican Willard Helander's four-year term has been both controversial and inspiring.

Hess, who got along well with both Republicans and Democrats in office, ran a user-friendly office and got the job done.

Helander, who has willingly challenged both her own party and Democrats, has transformed the clerk's office into a business.

Hess has vast knowledge of the office and could easily slide back into the saddle.

But, Helander has the business sense and has proven she can run an efficient office and keep the county moving.

Helander is preferred because we're not just electing a clerk, we are hiring a county department head.

Retain Del Re

Democrat Marlene Runyard has 21 years of patrol experience to bring to the Sheriff's office. A pioneer in her field, she has prompted the Sheriff's office to post sex offenders on the Internet and has clear plans for improving the role of the Sheriff in prevention and counseling programs.

Republican Gary Del Re is trying to be elected to his first term after being appointed to finish the term of Clint Grinnell.

Del Re has grown in his position in the past two years. He has undergone an extensive reorganization and implemented several programs to make the office more professional and efficient and has solid plans for further re-vamping, which is needed. He has also received the backing of the Lake County chiefs.

Runyard has much to offer the department and we hope she continues to seek greater leadership roles, however, for his proven ability to work with Lake County police chiefs, Del Re is preferred.

Experience vs. Education as Treasurer

The County Treasurer's race is a true example of experience versus education.

Republican Robert Skidmore has 14 years of on-the-job training in the office and the endorsement of current Treasurer Jack "Red" Anderson. His campaign motto, "If it's not broke, don't fix it."

Democrat Lynda Paul has a resume and a can-do spirit which would make her sought-after by any major corporation as a chief financial officer. Paul is bright, energetic and tops in her field in business.

Skidmore has the corporate knowledge of the office and certainly understands the role of the Treasurer's office more clearly. He has grown up in the business and clearly is capable of administering the office.

Paul's in the wrong race. Her enthusiasm and innovative ideas are motivating. She brings a need to look at doing things differently and the educational know-how to get it done. She should have been the Democrat's choice for State Representative in Dist. 62. We encourage her to seek a public service role in the legislature. She is gifted with the ability to analyze complex situations, budgets and most importantly understand the needs of people. We see her talents ill-served in this administrative post.

Both candidates will serve Lake County well. Paul would have too quickly learned that government can not always operate like big business.

Skidmore has the working knowledge to continue keeping Lake County's Treasury secure.

If you want innovative ideas in the Treasurer's office, chose Paul.

Both are well-qualified. Skidmore gets an edge for his corporate knowledge of the office.

County Board Dist. 2-Wadsworth

McCarely

Republican Loretta McCarely brings a 10-year interest in county government and a bent toward preserving the environment to the county board. She defeated a three opponents in the primary to win a spot on the Nov. 3 ballot. She has worked actively as a forest preserve steward.

Democrat Jeanne Hewitt has been gaining on-the-job experience working with government in the office of the Waukegan Fire Department. She also feels strongly about preserving the environment and supports the gas tax to fund road improvements.

We like McCarely's style and grit and feel she'll be a strong advocate on the county board. She gains our endorsement.

County Board Dist. 7-Eastern Gurnee

Westerman

Al Westerman has a strong background in county government. In his short two-year term on the board, Westerman has been active on the planning and zoning committee and a voice for controlled growth.

Democratic challenger Glenn Ryback has pitched his hat into other political races in recent years. A Wadsworth trustee, Ryback has working knowledge of the issues, but he pales in comparison to Westerman.

Westerman is strongly endorsed.

County Board Dist. 8-Waukegan

Democrat Robert Sabonjian, Jr., is challenging Republican Jim Stanczak in this Waukegan District.

Sabonjian has family roots in politics and is a strong voice for environmental concerns and controlled growth. Stanczak has been a go-along Republican who has done little to distinguish himself on the board.

Sabonjian is preferred, but he has to learn to work well with others.

County Board Dist. 9-Waukegan

Democrat Peggy Shorts ousted long-time county board member Debra Halas in the primary and will be a strong advocate for her district to the Lake County Board. She is independent and seeks to revitalize the ailing Waukegan area. She is also a moderate in the footsteps of John Matijevich. Roy Czajkowski is a likable enough political novice, but he was recruited by Republican big-guns to keep this seat in the fold.

Shorts is endorsed.

From Honest Abe to Slick Willie

Browsing in a bookstore we come across titles that tell us much about our nation's leadership during the 1990s. There is "A World Transformed," co-written by former President George Bush and his national security advisor, Gen. Brent Scowcroft; "Great Political Wit ... Laughing (Almost) All the Way to the White House," by former Sen. Bob Dole; and "The Grand Jury Testimony of William J. Clinton."

The latter is described as "the sexual inquisition of the world's most powerful man."

A friend tells me she cringes every time she sees Clinton continuing his embarrassing presidential act for the television cameras. "He has become such a weasel, such a creep," she says, ironically using the word that became Monica Lewinsky's nickname for him, "Creep."

Arguably, Clinton hasn't become a creep; he probably was one before he became our president. His opponents in Arkansas, remember, called him "Slick Willie."

But that didn't stop America's voters from preferring him to Bush in 1992 and Dole in 1996.

It has been said, "We get the kind of president we deserve." Those two examples of ballot-box buffoonery, and the reports that Clinton's approval ratings remain high, seem to me a scary indictment of our electorate.

On the other hand, some polls may be a farce. Have you personally ever been called by a pollster; has anyone you know ever been polled? Who are they sampling?

In the 1950s musical, "Call me Madam," the star of the show (based on Perle Mesta's life as a Washington, D.C., hostess) got show-stopping laughs with the punch line, "The American voters sure scare the hell out of you sometimes!"

How different the conduct in the White House and Oval Office might have been since 1992 had the majority of voters displayed an open or functioning mind.

I came across a videotape made two years ago of the dinner at which a wise and witty senator, Alan Simpson of Wyoming, was announcing his retirement. At one touching point he turned to George Bush in the audience and said, "My friend, my president, when the Moving Finger having writ moves on, it will record that of all the 42 presidents of the United States of America, you were surely the most decent man."

Simpson attributed to his fellow senator Dole "a devilish sense of humor," a trait many voters may have missed but one that is captured in Dole's new book.

A couple of his favorite anecdotes:

When Hubert Humphrey was asked to limit a speech to 12 minutes, he said, "The last time I spoke for only 12 minutes was when I said hello to my mother."

Ronald Reagan once said in California, "Keeping up with Governor Brown's promises is like reading Playboy magazine while your wife turns the pages."

Dole quotes a couple of humorous lines from Alan Simpson, but not this favorite of mine: "Whenever I return to Wyoming to give a speech, the emcee introduces me like this: 'Here's the latest dope from Washington.'"

Dole does include this gem: Acknowledging his defeat in the 1976 presidential primaries, Morris Udall said, "The voters have spoken — the bastards!"

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

GOP big guns aimed at Dem's Garrett, Shorts

Two Lake County races have been put in the "must win" category by the Republican high command which is allocating money and manpower to insure victory Nov. 3.

Considering Democratic Shore Line gains in past elections, retaining the 59th Legislative District as a GOP seat is a high priority for Republican strategists.

Attorney Chris Stride, GOP nominee, and Democrat Susan Garrett, both with moderate stances on social issues, are going toe-to-toe. Illinois Atty. Gen. Jim Ryan, strongly favored for re-election, is being brought in to shore up Stride's efforts.

The county's regular GOP apparatus, which works closely with real estate development interests, is backing to the hilt the candidacy of Roy Czajkowski for a Waukegan district head since the Stone Age by Democrats.

Czajkowski's Democrat opponent is Peggy Shorts, who KO'd incumbent Debbie Halas in the primary. Shorts ran on a controlled growth and environmentally sensitive program. Independent Republicans see Shorts as a welcome ally in fighting for open space and protection of the environment. A Czajkowski win is a key to control of the Lake County Board.

Link for openness

State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) is a solid supporter of the new no-straight-ticket voting rule to be introduced Nov. 3. "I love it," enthuses Link, who also is Democratic chairman of the county. "Anything can happen."

Paradise paved

Kim Eudy, anti-development activist and conservationist, and her husband, Ken, have pulled up stakes for McHenry County. Eudy monitored the ravages of subdivision construction in west Lake County. Her parting shot was, "They've paved paradise and put up a parking lot" to describe her Wooster Lake neighborhood.

Looking at plastic

Deputy County Treasurer Bob Skidmore never had a disagreement with his boss, retiring Treasurer Jack "Red" Anderson. But if Skidmore is successful in succeeding Anderson in the Nov. 3 election, one of the first changes to be made in the Treasurer's office will be implementing real estate tax payments with credit card.

"We're in the '90s. That's the way to go," remarked Skidmore, who related that Anderson was opposed to plastic money on philosophic grounds.

Second for Mundelein?

If he is elected Lake County Treasurer, Bob Skidmore will be only the second Mundelein resident to hold county-wide office. The first was the late Chick LaMagdeleine, a Democrat who served 1974-78 as sheriff. Former Sheriff Clint Grinnell, a Republican, resides on a small farm in rural Mundelein that technically is unincorporated Fremont Township.

Bertha approves

Bertha Ogrin, a long-time Democratic leader from Waukegan, had double reason to be pleased with the unveiling for the media last week of the new Thunderhawk Golf Club that the Fort Preserve District will open in 1999. As a former County Board member and Forest Preserve commissioner, Ogrin backed development of the course on north Lewis Avenue, west of Zion. She also is the mother of David Ogrin, a veteran member of the pro golf circuit.

Del Re backed by chiefs

Incumbent Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re has the endorsement of the Lake County Chiefs of Police Association in his first election bid. The association points to his implementation of many county-wide programs that have been beneficial to the safety and protection of the citizens of Lake County as validation for the support.

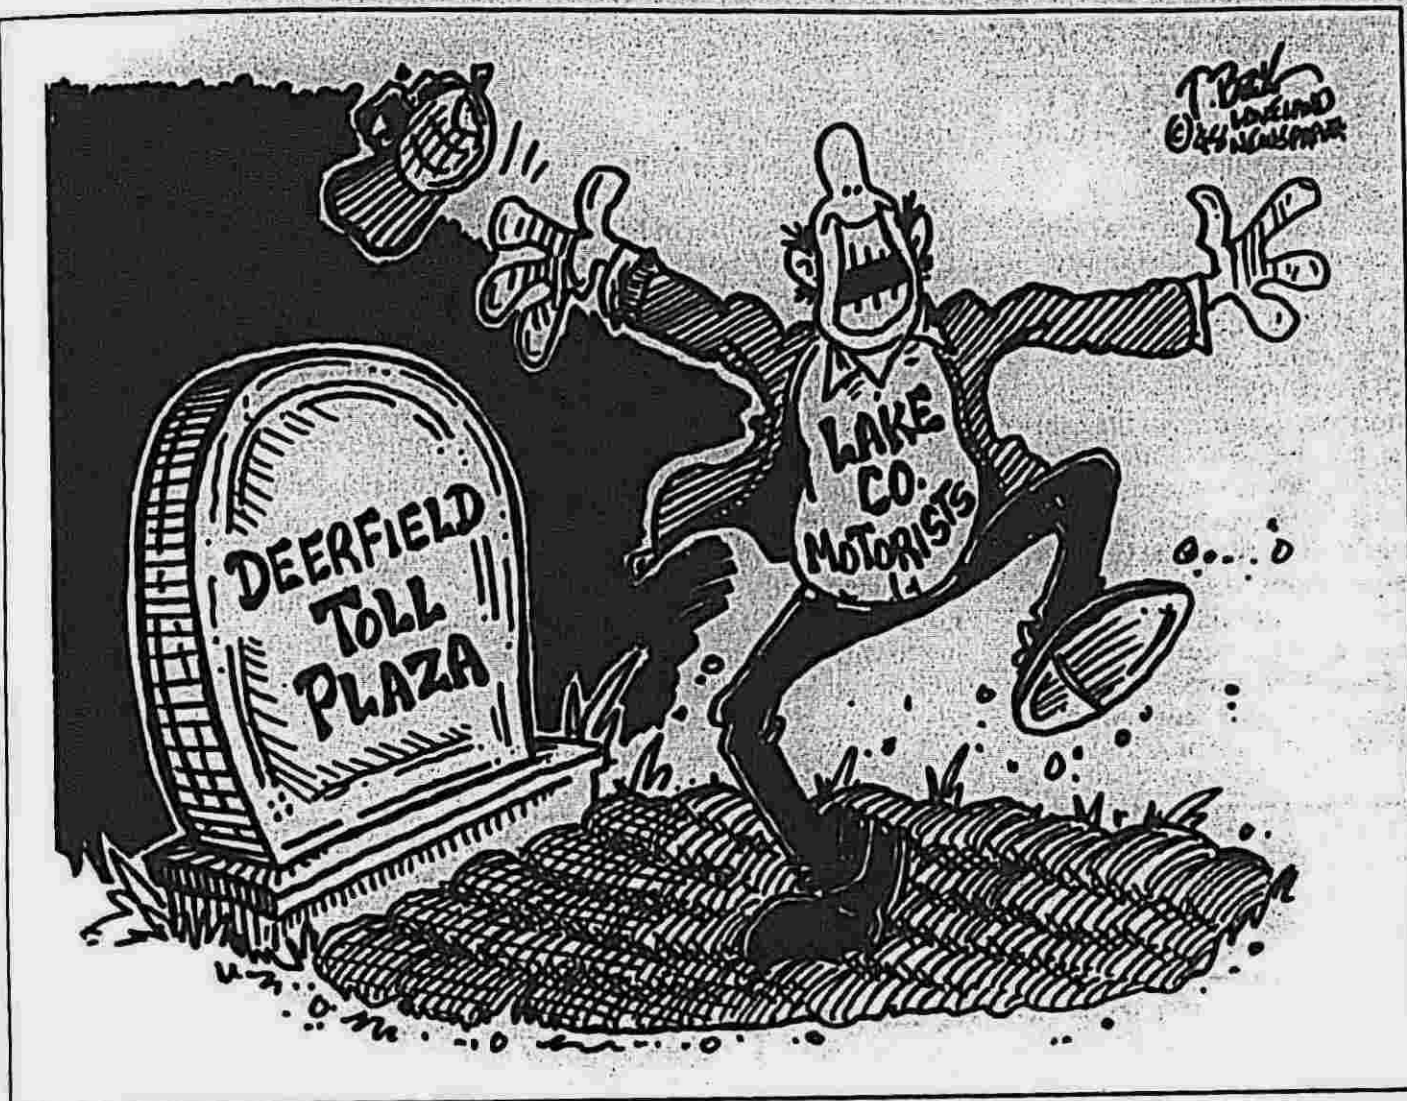

Conservation Alliance picks

The Lake County Conservation Alliance has made recommendation for voters Nov. 3.

At the county board level the group lends its support to Loretta McCarey, Al Westerman, Peggy Shorts and Bob Sabjonian. Susan Garrett is endorsed for Illinois House District 59.

BPW supports all-female ticket

The Lake County Business and Professional Women are backing all women in their endorsement slate. Preferred candidates include: Senator Carol Moseley-Braun, State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis, State Representative Andrea Moore (Dist. 61-Libertyville) and candidate Susan Garrett for Dist. 59. Willard Helander received the nod for County Clerk, Lynda Paul as County Treasurer, Marlene Runyard for Sheriff and Barbara Gilleran-Johnson for circuit court judge.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Readers debate clerk race

Lady was unbeatable

You cannot erase someone's perfect record of public service and reputation for integrity and responsibility by partisan, political attacks. That is what Willard Helander is doing to promote her own candidacy against Linda Hess.

Linda Hess had a spotless record when she served as Lake County Clerk. Helander has recently attacked Linda Hess' abilities in personal attacks; for example saying that Linda "would not have a clue" in doing this or that.

Linda Hess has been so "clued in" that she won three elections in heavily Republican Lake County. She won votes from both political parties because she was non-partisan. Her employees were treated fairly whether they were Democrat, Republican, or Independent. She tries to be Linda Hess, and no one else.

On Nov. 3, I will vote for a "Lady named Linda." Linda Hess for Lake County Clerk.

Paula Emerson
Round Lake Heights

Facts speak

Mismanagement in office? As a taxpayer, I'm disappointed when "politics" gets the better over the facts. We have in Willard Helander a County Clerk who has been responsible to the taxpayers and made enormous improvements to curb the costs of running elections. Let's set some facts straight.

In 1983, Willard Helander's opponent spent more than $1.9 million dollars to support 190,000 voters. Fourteen years later, Willard Helander supports voter roles as high as $2.2 million dollars. The cost is $3 less per voter than 14 years ago.

In past administrations, 43 staff and 22 or more temporaries were needed to run elections. Today, Willard Helander has 37 staff and two temporaries. Willard Helander has made a real difference for the taxpayers of Lake County. I urge you to vote for the "Woman named Willard."

Jack Alan Hicks
Deerfield

Hess was responsible

As the election season nears the finishing mark, some of the races are keying in on which candidate is more responsible with the taxpayers' pocketbooks. The county clerk's contest has brought out spending patterns of Linda Hess, who served as Lake County Clerk for 12 years, and Willard Helander, the present clerk. Hess claims that Helander has increased her budget by 29 percent in less than one term of office, which would translate to at least five times as much as all the Hess increases in 12 years.

There has been some attention to the turnover problems in the Helander administration. Some of her initial mass firing were political firings, not for incompetence. Faced with legal action, most of those employees had to be returned to other areas of county government. When Helander then hired "her own team" of upper management, that was soon followed by either firings or "voluntary quits" of those she hired. That action resulted in higher costs, morale problems, and personnel instability.

Linda Hess managed the county clerk's office responsibly, always trying to hold down costs. She was always a model public servant, and I believe that her reputation as such will help to bring her back as Lake County Clerk.

Alvin N. Cohen

'Say Yes for Hess?' I don't think so—

I am the employee who left the County Clerk's office on Oct. 6th. My private reasons for leaving the County Clerk's office should be of no concern to anyone but my family and my employer, don't use my family's misfortune for your petty campaign slander.

You do not know the facts behind my personal decision. Not only am I personally insulted, but outraged at your total disregard for professionalism. You gave up this office, Ms. Hess, to pursue other interests—you had other priorities, well so do I. And I leave here with good wishes not only from my fellow coworkers, but with only good wishes from the County Clerk. Well—guess where my vote goes to now—"A Woman named Willard."

Beth M. Edwards
Winthrop Harbor

Can't afford Hess

The only way we can put negative campaigns behind us is to vote for the candidate who campaigns on issues and not on personal attacks.

Hess has sunk to a new low. Her campaign "comeback" has stalled and now she's resorted to mean-spirited, personal attacks on her opponent.

Do not believe me? The League of Women Voters debate is being shown on local cable community access station, and I urge you to watch.

I am sorry, Linda Hess, but Lake County has passed you by. We just cannot afford to go back. My vote goes to Willard Helander for County Clerk.

Margaret Harlan
Mundelein

Willard has leadership skills

I finally had a chance to meet Willard Helander. After speaking with her and reviewing her record, I must say I am impressed with her candidacy.

Willard speaks candidly about the issues and is more truly interested about serving the public than making cheap attacks on her opponent. She has increased voter registration and the office is more efficient. Because of Willard's leadership, the Lake County Clerk's office has moved into the 21st century. Computerization and modernization of the office is now complete and we all will benefit from Willard's wise investment.

Beyond just being an efficient administrator, her personal approach to people is warm, friendly and sincere. I can see why she solved the election judge shortage she inherited from the prior administration. People are willing to volunteer their time when they see someone who cares about them.

Having served in the U.S. Marine Corps for 22 years, I have served under many individuals with outstanding leadership. Willard Helander is someone that exhibits many of those qualities that I admire. Willard Helander should remain our County Clerk.

John F. Hamel
Wildwood

Gutter campaign

I find it very interesting that the only comments Linda Hess can make about her opponent are personal. She has yet to talk about her accomplishments, policies, positions, and her vision for the office.

Hess would not recognize the office today because of all the modernization, cross-training of staff, and streamlining of services our current Lake County Clerk Willard Helander has accomplished.

Poor Linda Hess, it sure is sad that you have resorted to such "gutter style" campaign tactics. One has to wonder why with your "12 years of experience" you do not have one accomplishment to promote.

*Jon Becker
Wauconda*

Morale is issue

In the Lake County Clerk's race, after Linda Hess brought out the extreme turnover rate during the incumbent's term, Willard Helander responded, "This race is not about personnel problems; it's not relevant." I had to re-read the quote because it was so hard to believe.

Lake County Clerk Willard Helander does not believe that staffing problems in her office are relevant. She obviously, then, does not believe that the way that she manages the office is relevant.

When the turnover rate of a public office reaches near 50 percent in such a short period of time, there is a drastic problem, and it is definitely relevant as an election issue. Something is seriously wrong with the way the county clerk's office is being managed, and Willard Helander is the problem. That is what is relevant.

There have been others who have written to say that the different management styles between Willard Helander and Linda Hess is the key issue in the county clerk's race. It is relevant, and I believe that we must return Linda Hess as Lake County Clerk to restore stability in an office that was once known for its fairness, non-partisanship, and efficiency.

Peter A. Couvall Waukegan

Hess will serve public well

A Helander for Clerk supporter writes that "not only has she done a fine job as Lake County Clerk, she seems to be able to do this with a smile." That is not what I hear about the way that personnel have been managed there. When almost 50 percent are turned over, and that includes many who Helander hired herself, that doesn't sound like everything is "all smiles."

A user-friendly atmosphere in an office just doesn't happen; it is caused by policies that bring stability from the very top down. There cannot be such an atmosphere with such a steady changeover in personnel. It is nothing to "smile about," and I believe that the best change to bring about that stability would be "at the top."

My choice for that change at the top is Linda Hess for Lake County Clerk. That will bring about real smiles, because the public will be the winners.

*Scott J. Finn
Deerfield*

Willard has vision

When elected in 1994, Willard Helander found that the former clerk, Linda Hess was one of the lucky ones chosen to receive one of the very first modern, personal computers in the county. The computer was not plugged in and had never been used. Linda Hess cannot truthfully deny this—it was common knowledge that she never asked her staff to even try the new computer.

Willard Helander plugged in the computer and bought a "how to" manual which a capable staffer mastered in no time. The office's accounting records, previously kept on ledgers, were transferred to spreadsheets. Hess is now criticizing Helander right and left, a sure sign she does not want to focus on the truth about her lack of action on technology and modernization.

It takes a positive leader to move forward, not dwelling in the past. Willard Helander has brought energy, vision and, yes, concern—concern for the staff, customers and the taxpayers. Hess tells us she automated all she could—but she never plugged in the computer for an entire year. It just does not compute. Re-elect "A woman named Willard."

Max services, minimized cost

To paraphrase James Carville,

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"It's maximized services at minimized costs, stupid."

At the recent League of Women Voters forum, the Democrat candidate for Lake County Clerk Linda Hess attacked the current Lake County Clerk for mismanagement.

Mismanagement is leaving historic vital records in file cabinets, unprotected, virtually disintegrating before our eyes.

Mismanagement is failing to adequately prepare the Clerk's office for "motor voter," while serving on the statewide "Motor voter" steering committee.

Mismanagement is the continuation of election judge shortages, year after year, for over 12 years,

Mismanagement is the delay and lack of vision in the election procedures, resulting in Lake County being one of the last counties in the state of Illinois in reporting election returns.

All of the above occurred during Hess' tenure as Lake County Clerk.

Today, thanks to Willard Helander, the Lake County Clerk's office is running smarter and better. We, the taxpayers, are finally getting maximized services at minimized costs. That is why I am going to vote to re-elect Willard Helander, our Lake County Clerk.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Pursuant to law public notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to the Illinois Constitution will be submitted to the Electors of the State of Illinois for adoption or rejection at the General Election to be held on November 3, 1998. (Proposed changes in the existing constitutional provisions are indicated by underscoring new matter and by striking all matter to be deleted.)

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO SECTION 15 OF ARTICLE VI THE JUDICIARY

SECTION 15. RETIREMENT - DISCIPLINE

(a) The General Assembly may provide by law for the retirement of Judges and Associate Judges at a prescribed age. Any retired Judge or Associate Judge, with his or her consent, may be assigned by the Supreme Court to judicial service for which he or she shall receive the applicable compensation in lieu of retirement benefits. A retired Associate Judge may be assigned only as an Associate Judge.

(b) A Judicial Inquiry Board is created. The Supreme Court shall select two Circuit Judges as members and the Governor shall appoint four persons who are not lawyers and three lawyers as members of the Board. No more than two of the lawyers and two of the non-lawyers appointed by the Governor shall be members of the same political party. The terms of Board members shall be four years. A vacancy on the Board shall be filled for a full term in the manner the original appointment was made. No member may serve on the Board more than eight years.

(c) The Board shall be convened permanently, with authority to conduct investigations, receive or initiate complaints concerning a Judge or Associate Judge, and file complaints with the courts commission. The Board shall not file a complaint unless five members believe that a reasonable basis exists (1) to charge the Judge or Associate Judge with willful misconduct in office, persistent failure to perform his duties, or other conduct that is prejudicial to the administration of justice or that brings the judicial office into disrepute, or (2) to charge that the Judge or Associate Judge is physically or mentally unable to perform his duties. All proceedings of the Board shall be confidential except the filing of a complaint with the Courts Commission. The Board shall prosecute the complaint.

(d) The Board shall adopt rules governing its procedures. It shall have subpoena power and authority to appoint and direct its staff. Members of the Board who are not Judges shall receive per diem compensation and necessary expenses; members who are Judges shall receive necessary expenses only. The General Assembly by law shall appropriate funds for the operation of the Board.

(e) An independent Courts Commission is created consisting of one Supreme Court Judge selected by that Court as a member and one as an alternate, who shall be its chairman two Appellate Court Judges selected by that Court as members and three as alternates, and two Circuit Judges selected by the Supreme Court as members and three as alternates, and two citizens selected by the Governor as members and two as alternates. Members and alternates who are Appellate Court Judges must each be from a different judicial district. Members and Alternates who are Circuit Judges must each be from a different Judicial District. Members and alternates of the Commission shall not be members of the Judicial Inquiry Board. The members of the Commission shall select a chairperson to serve a two-year term.

The Commission shall be convened permanently to hear complaints filed by the Judicial Inquiry Board. The Commission shall have authority after notice and public hearing, (1) to remove from office, suspend without pay, censure or reprimand a Judge or Associate Judge for willful misconduct in office, persistent failure to perform his or her duties, or other conduct that is prejudicial to the administration of justice or that brings the judicial office into disrepute, or (2) to suspend, with or without pay, or retire a Judge or Associate Judge who is physically or mentally unable to perform his or her duties.

(f) The concurrence of four three members of the Commission shall be necessary for a decision. The decision of the Commission shall be final.

(g) The Commission shall adopt comprehensive rules to ensure that governing its procedures are fair and appropriate. These rules and any amendments shall be public and filed with the Secretary of State at least 30 days before becoming effective.

(h) A member of the Commission shall disqualify himself or herself, or the other members of the Commission shall disqualify a member, with respect to any proceeding in which disqualification or refusal would be required of a Judge under rules of the Supreme Court, under rules of the Commission, or by law.

If a Supreme Court Judge is the subject of a proceeding, then there shall be no Supreme Court Judge sitting as a member of the Commission with respect to that proceeding. Instead, an alternate Appellate Court Judge not from the same Judicial District as the subject Supreme Court Judge shall replace the subject Supreme Court Judge. If a member who is an Appellate Court Judge is the subject of a proceeding, then an alternate Appellate Court Judge shall replace the subject Appellate Court Judge. If an Appellate Court Judge who is not a member is the subject of a proceeding and an Appellate Court Judge from the same Judicial District is a member, then an alternate Appellate Court Judge shall replace that member.

If a member who is a Circuit Judge is the subject of a proceeding, then an alternate Circuit Judge shall replace the subject Circuit Judge. If a Circuit Judge who is not a member is the subject of a proceeding and a Circuit Judge from the same Judicial District is a member, then an alternate Circuit Judge shall replace that member.

If a member of the Commission is disqualified under this Section with respect to any proceeding, that member shall be replaced by an alternate on a rotating basis in a manner provided by rule of the Commission. The alternate shall act as member of the Commission with respect to that proceeding only.

(i) The Commission and shall have power to issue subpoenas.

(j) Members and alternates of the Commission who are not Judges shall receive per diem compensation and necessary expenses; members and alternates who are Judges shall receive necessary expenses only. The General Assembly shall provide by law for the expenses and compensation of the Commission.

How To Survive
The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,
Please help with this one. My grandson graduated high school in 1990. I paid for him to attend college which lasted 1 year. He decided he would prefer to work instead of attend school. I allowed him to move in with me to help him get on his feet and he started to search for a job. As luck would have it, he landed a great job with a decent pay per hour. Unfortunately he was without transportation, so I purchased a used car for him to get to and from work with the idea that he will pay it down with his weekly pay. All was well until I tried to reach him at work several days after he started and was informed that he was only employed there for 2 days. Here we are 3 years later, he has gone from job to job always a week here, a month there. I constantly search through the help wanted ads for him but nothing seems to last. The reason I am writing is to find out if young adults who are without a college education typically end up with a jumpy work history. Is there anything more I could be doing to help? Thanks for listening H.F. - Deerfield

Dear H.F.,
The best thing you could do... STOP DOING! Your grandson may feel as though he has absolutely everything he needs... a roof over his head, meals, a car... and he does! Some of what he is lacking, namely ambition and independence are so vitally important in forging ahead with one's career. Right now it sounds as though the only "drive" he has is from the automobile you purchased for him. You may think that you are helping him and this situation is more common than you think. If you are having trouble communicating, I will suggest that together you may wish to pursue professional family counseling which may be offered through your community or township free of charge. He however, may benefit from professional career counseling for which I would be happy to oblige, but he must make the call himself! Good Luck!

Dear Search,
I am a working woman in the process of a divorce. When should I change my marital status on my taxes from marriage to single? R.K. - Libertyville
Dear R.K.,
No "grey area" here. You are either married or you're not! When all is finalized legally... make that change!

The Euro (407-16), with 3,323 square feet of living space, is unique. It has a covered breezeway to the garage, which has two full sets of doors for drive-through use. There is a shop along with a large storage area in the main garage, while overhead is an attic area directly accessible from the main home through a walkway.

Up covered steps allows entry into this beautiful home which has vaulted ceilings in the entry, living room, and dining area. The living/dining area could be used as a great room. There is a fireplace against one wall. The dining area is a half circle of windows with a door to the deck in the back. This large area has numerous windows for brightening the home and giving a look of openness.

The kitchen is every woman's dream. There is an enormous walk-in pantry for storage of food staples, cooking appliances, and the extra goodies needed during the holiday season. There is a cooktop island with an eating bar. Countertop space is also abundant and open.

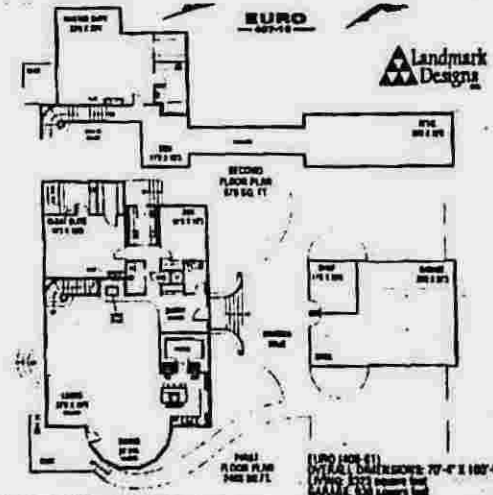

There is a guest room in the rear with its own private bathroom and oversized tub. The walk-in closet is large and great for the storage of seasonal clothes. The suite is large and would make an ideal mother-in-law suite, with easy access to the utility room containing the washer and dryer, along with the kitchen area.

The other room located downstairs is the den. It could be used as another bedroom if needed. However, it would make a great place for the computer, an office, or a library full of books. Adjacent to this room with an entrance from the entry is a half bath and more closet space.

The stairs going up from the living room end in a hall leading to another den and the master bedroom. The huge master suite could be set up to have a private sitting room for reading or to watch T.V. There is a large walk-in closet, separated from the main suite with a pocket door. The private bath contains a single sink and an oversized tub.

The open den area is the beginning of the open area which contains the walkway and attic area over the garage. The entire home has been designed with versatile storage areas in mind.

Buick Century is a proven winner in midsize market

Buick's midsize Century enters 1999 with an all-new standard traction control system, a more efficient antilock braking system and significant ride and handling enhancements. Buick's most affordable offering, Century maintains its traditional Buick attributes while focusing on value and safety to the customer.

In 1998, Century was named a "Best Buy" by Consumers Digest magazine, and was included as one of the "Top 40 New Cars" by Consumer Review magazine.

"Century is a proven winner in the highly competitive midsize market," said Anthony H. Derhake, Century brand manager. "Our customers recognize that Century is a high quality family sedan which is also an outstanding value. For 1999 Century delivers a better ride and significant refinements plus more standard features than ever before. It's a luxury car for everyone."

Heading the list of improvements for Century for 1999 are numerous safety features, many of them standard.

All Century models for 1999 feature a standard four-wheel antilock braking system that is more efficient than the previous system, which was also standard.

Another new standard safety feature on all models is a tire inflation monitor. If a tire is losing air, the monitor senses the difference in rotating speeds between tires and notifies the driver by an illuminated indicated light on the instrument panel.

Also new is an electrochromic dimming outside rear-view mirror option on all Century models. These mirrors automatically dim when bright lights approach from behind.

Ride and handling has been refined in the Century suspension for 1999. Increased rear shock absorber valving and larger front and rear stabilizer bars reduce body roll.

Improvements also include new standard Concert Sound II speakers on all models. A new optional Concert Sound III system featuring eight speakers and an amplifier is available. Also new is an optional diversity antenna system mounted in the windshield and back glass, designed to complement the Concert Sound III system with improved radio reception.

For 1999, Century returns with the 3.1-liter 3100 V-6, a 60-degree engine that develops 160 horsepower at 5200 rpm and 185 lb-ft of torque at 4000 rpm. Projected fuel economy is 20 miles per gallon city and 29 mpg highway.

Save Money On Automobile Insurance

Want to know how your automobile's liability insurance really works? According to Alan Abler, an insurance agent for one of America's largest insurance companies, the average consumer pays a great deal of money each year for auto insurance and understands very little about it.

An insurance broker selling life, auto, homeowners and commercial insurance for the past 22 years, Abler has authored several articles and books on the subject of insurance in order to fill the need for consumer education with regard to insurance affairs. The many changes needed in the insurance industry, he feels, only can come about if the consumer becomes educated and demands change.

Abler's most recent book, "How to Save 25% Plus on Your Auto Insurance" (Heidi House LTD), is easy to read and understand, and explains everything from the different types of auto insurance coverage to major insurance resources to selecting an insurance company to settling claims. Included in the book are "Twelve Questions Insurance Buyers Never Ask But Should" as well as tips on how to prepare for changes in automobile insurance in the 21st century.

The book is available from Heidi House LTD for $19.95 (price includes a 30-day money-back guarantee). To order, call toll free (888) 511-6070 or fax (602) 780-1704. For additional information, visit the company's Web site at <http://www.freeyellow.com/members2/heidi> or visit the catalog listing at <http://www.amazon.com>, the online bookstore. To order by mail, write to Heidi House LTD, 18631 N. 19th Ave., Suite 128-222, Phoenix, Ariz. 85027.

THE INSURANCE COVERAGE you take out on your car is as important an investment as the car itself. Making educated choices when it comes to car insurance can be easy, with "How to Save 25% Plus on Your Auto Insurance" (Heidi House LTD), by Alan Abler.

Raymond Chevrolet work hand-in-hand with Illinois Department of Transportation's 'Adopt A Highway'

"Last Sunday, we practiced what we preach", that's a director quote from Mark Scarpelli, General Manager of Raymond Chevrolet Oldsmobile in Antioch.

October 25, the management and employees of the dealership met at 8 a.m. and thoroughly cleaned a two mile stretch of Route 173 from Deep Lake Road to Route 45.

Raymond Chevrolet Oldsmobile has been involved in the Illinois Department of Transportation's 'Adopt A Highway' program for several years.

"My Dad made community involvement a cornerstone of our business when he opened our doors 30 years ago," says General Manager, Mark Scarpelli.

Scarpelli adds, "Nobody needed any prodding. Our staff knows they are lucky to be able to live and work in such a beautiful part of the Midwest. They also know that everyone who lives and works in Lake County as to take responsibility for keeping it beautiful."

The dealership principal went on to say, "We really love this area and corny though it may sound, we'd like to keep it that way because the word is out and Lake County is growing like gangbusters."

Bernard Chevrolet is in the spirit of Halloween

In the spirit of Halloween and commitment to their community, Bernard Chevrolet/Isuzu in Libertyville is hosting a Costume Contest on Sat., Oct. 31st from 9 a.m. until 10:30 a.m. This first annual event is for children dressed in costume, 10 years of age and under. Prizes will be awarded and there will be treats for everyone. The Grand Prize is a Power Wheels Corvette. "We are a family oriented dealership and this Costume Contest is our way of saying thank you to our local customers and friends who have helped to make Bernard Chevrolet/Isuzu successful," state Joe Bosco, General Manager. Plan to bring your children this Halloween morning to the fun-filled Costume Event at Bernard Chevrolet/Isuzu. Judging will be at 10:30 a.m. They are located at 1001 S. Milwaukee Avenue, Libertyville. For more information, call 847-362-1400.

Do-It-Yourself security tips for vehicles and garages

Every 19 seconds a car is stolen in the United States. According to statistics from the CCC Information Institute, Honda Accords and Toyota Camrys are among the most popular targets of thieves. Thefts of sport utility vehicles also are on the rise.

"Many of the cars that are stolen are unlocked, and some even have keys left in the ignition or lying on the floor of the car," says Police Lt. Roger Timm of Cudahy, Wis.

"Car owners easily can protect their valuable investments with a few simple security precautions," says Timm. He recommends:

- Always lock your car — even if it's parked in your driveway or in front of your house.

- Keep valuables in the trunk and out of sight.

- Invest in a visible theft deterrent like a quality steering wheel lock.

Some car owners do not believe that their vehicles appeal to car thieves. However, statistics show that the make and model of a car does not impact a thief as much as ease of access — since many thieves are just out for a joyride. Any visible deterrent usually causes a would-be thief to move on to easier pickings.

"Some owners seem to shy away from steering wheel locks because the devices appear cumbersome and can be difficult to install," says Timm. "However, new advances in these types of locks have made them very practical theft deterrents.

The new steering wheel lock features a patented dead-bolt locking system and the highest guarantee against vehicle theft available today — $2,000.

Unlike other steering wheel locks, the Master Block product uses innovative, dual-locking "fingers" or hooks to prevent a single cut through the steering wheel from defeating the device. The lock's hardened steel construction resists cutting, drilling and smashing.

Timm also points out that home garages are popular targets of thieves. Once a burglar gains access to a garage, he or she simply can close the door and work without fear of being detected.

By taking a few simple precautions, you can protect your vehicles and the equipment stored in your garage from theft. For more information, visit the company's Web site at <http://www.masterlock.com>.

Cleaning up your car's act for the winter driving season

If you're like most homeowners, the arrival of fall usually signals the beginning of the big fall cleanup. Maybe you'll clear the yard and gutters of fallen leaves or prune that weak branch that may succumb to the weight of upcoming snow and ice. Have you ever considered preparing your car for the long winter months? Sure, cleaning the car is a warm-weather ritual, but winter is the time when your car needs the most attention.

Second only to your home, a car probably is the biggest investment you will ever make. That's why it's important to protect your investment from all the mud, snow, rain and road salt that Old Man Winter can dish out. Following are some suggestions from the car-care experts at STP to help you get your car's exterior prepared for the cold winter.

First, rinse the vehicle thoroughly with a strong, steady stream of water to remove any loose surface dirt — otherwise, when you wash your car, you'll just be moving the dirt around and possibly grind it into the paint. It's a good idea to hose down the inside of the wheel wells, undercarriage and any cracks, like the gas filler area, to remove road debris that can contribute to corrosion.

After preparing the exterior, fill a clean bucket with lukewarm water, and use a detergent specially formulated for auto finishes like STP® Son Of A Gun!® Car Wash. Avoid using household detergents, since they may contain ingredients and abrasives harmful to your car's finish.

Next, take a clean sponge and, starting with the roof, clean a small area of the car at a time. Avoid letting the soap dry on the car. To reduce the chance of scratching the paint, wring out the sponge before you start a new section. If the sponge should drop on the ground, rinse it thoroughly with a hose. This will help minimize the risk of dragging small stones and debris across the finish.

To clean the wheels, use a powerful wheel cleaning solution like Tuff Stuff® Heavy Duty Wheel Cleaner, which helps remove brake dust and is safe for use with all wheels. Simply spray on the wheels and hose off.

After you've cleaned the car, it's time to dry it using a chamois or soft cotton towel. Again, do one section at a time, and wring the towel frequently to shed excess moisture.

Once the car is dry, it's time to put the finishing touches on the exterior. To get that "fresh from the detailer" look, use a quality tire glaze like STP® Son Of A Gun! Tire Glaze® Tire Dressing, which provides a quick and easy way to achieve the popular "wet look" for tires. Now, your car is all dressed up and ready to go anywhere. With this advice, winter won't catch your car looking less than its personal best.

TO GET THAT "fresh from the detailer" look, use a quality tire glaze which provides a quick and easy way to achieve the popular "wet look" for tires. Just an even spray of the glaze leaves a long-lasting, durable shine that looks great for days.

Gurnee Dodge breaks ground for new state-of-the-art facility

The new Gurnee Dodge store is one step closer to reality today as the dealership officially broke ground on their new 30,000 square foot building. Lake County's newest automobile facility is scheduled to open in June '99, on Grand Ave. in Gurnee, just west of Gurnee Mills Mall.

"We are very excited about the progress of our new store," said Michael Fohrman, President of Gurnee Dodge. "We look forward to bringing the popular Dodge lineup of cars, trucks and vans to Gurnee. Because Dodge has such great products backed by a powerful warranty, it will be the only brand of new cars that we'll sell at the new store. We are confident that our new neighbors will love this lineup and quickly become our new friends."

What makes Gurnee Dodge special? "There are many things about our new store that make it truly unique," according to Fohrman. "We'll have an expansive showroom where customers can see 12 cars and trucks inside, with hundreds more available outside on our 6-acre lot."

"Our 14 service bays will feature the latest diagnostic and repair technology that the industry has to offer," continued Fohrman. "That means we can service our customers quickly and efficiently. After all, the key to good service is fixing the customer's car right the first time at a fair price. That will be a lot easier with the state-of-the-art equipment at our new store."

Fohrman currently operates the Dodge dealership in Waukegan, IL. The move to Gurnee is just that, a relocation of the successful dealership that has operated for nearly 20 years as Fohrman Auto Mart, then Fohrman Dodge. "We've enjoyed a great run in Waukegan," noted Fohrman. "We're confident that our many loyal customers will really like the amenities of our Gurnee store. At the same time, our new location will help us better serve an expanded market in a rapidly growing part of Lake County."

For more information about the new Gurnee Dodge, contact Leo Kupskey, General Manager at Fohrman Dodge, at (847) 336-3510. Fohrman Dodge is located at 2725 Belvidere Road in Waukegan.

Subaru of America proudly supports national car care month

In support of National Car Care Month, Subaru of America, Inc. (SOA) encourages its dealers to host free car care clinics for Subaru owners. Clinics will be held through the end of the year and are designed to promote vehicle safety through preventive maintenance.

Subaru owners are invited to bring in their vehicles for a free, no obligation, professional diagnostic inspection. This includes a check-up of all major operating systems with a written report of the vehicle's condition.

The Car Care Council, a non-profit organization created over 25 years ago, promotes National Car Care Month and educates motorists about the benefits of proper vehicle maintenance.

"Subaru proudly supports the Car Care Council's effort to educate consumers on taking care of their vehicles. The Subaru clinics will not only help in preserving the life of Subaru vehicles, it will also be a great opportunity for Subaru owners to prepare their cars for the winter--no matter what the weather," said Ginny Newkirk, Fixed Operations Advertising & Communications Manager.

Subaru owners should contact their local Subaru dealers for available clinic dates and times.
